Officials Call For Emergency Potato Blight Meeting

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

COUDERSPORT (Potter Co.) — About 90 percent of the expected potato crop in Potter County is gone, according to Potter County extension agent Samuel Crossley, who on Thursday announced an emergency meeting set for 10 a.m. Wednesday, Sept. 7, at the Potter County Extension office in Coudersport.

Crossley said large amounts of rain this summer and cool, overcast conditions has created ideal conditions for "late blight fungus," a common disease to potato growers.

However, according to Crossley and Penn State plant pathologist Dr. Barbara Christ, this is not just a case of weather conditions causing ideal conditions for plant disease. This situation has far more serious implications, she said.

According to Christ, it is believed that the disease that has destroyed the majority of the potatoes in Potter County and Erie County is a new strain, with conceivably the potential to pose long term management problems for potato growers.

Christ is to attend the meeting and give a slide presentation on the disease.

STEVENS (Lancaster Co.) — FFA supporters brought their best golf wear and equipment. They also brought their pocketbooks.

Friends and supporters of the Pennsylvania FFA were on hand Monday at the Fox Chase Golf Club near Stevens to raise more than $7,500, including about $3,000 at a benefit auction, for the Pennsylvania chapter of the national agricultural youth development program.

The second annual Hoss's Fore FFA Golf Tournament and auction, hosted under clearing skies, light humidity, and near-perfect golfing conditions, was a turnout in force from about 31 sponsors, including 21 hole sponsors. On hand to support the event were a wide array of generous agri-industry businesses and agencies from all over the region and the state.

Not only did many businesses and agencies contribute, but so did many of the state FFA officers on hand to help with the fund-raising event.

For instance, Laurie J. Wild-

Wednesday, August 31, 1994

NATIONAL EGG MARKET - AT A GLANCE: Prices were generally unchanged except brown extra-large in New England were unchanged to higher. The market tone was steady. Demand covered the full range and was mostly moderate into retail channels, and often good into food service and institutional avenues. Supplies of brown eggs remained short in New England, and tight in other areas. White egg supplies were adequate or available. Breaking stock supplies were adequate from regular sources, and plants provided an unaggressive demand for additional supplies partially due to the upcoming holiday weekend. Spent hen offerings were at least adequate for the light demand.

Delmarva Broiler/Fryer Market

Wednesday, August 31, 1994

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds continued to improve, and offerings were generally noted as adequate and in better balance. Live supplies were mostly moderate; weights varied in a range of light to heavy. Processing schedules remained very heavy. Less than trucklot asking prices were 1 cent lower at 49 to 60 cents. Trade sentiment was mostly steady. In the parts complex, breast items were no more than adequate at most plants, particularly bone-in breasts. Leg quarters were held at varying levels of firmness. Wings were in better balance at some plants, but were in excess at others.

National Grain Market

NATIONAL GRAIN SUMMARY GRAIN AND SOYBEAN PRICES HIGHER WEDNESDAY, SOYBEANS LEADING THE PACK. WHEAT 1-3 CENTS HIGHER. CORN 1-4 CENTS HIGHER. SORGHUM 1-2 CENTS HIGHER. SOYBEANS 6-8 CENTS HIGHER.

CASH WHEAT PRICES HIGHER TODAY AND NEW CONTRACT HIGHS SET IN THE FUTURES FOR SEVERAL MONTHS. A FLURRY OF EXPORT ORDERS AND GOOD PROSPECTS OF MORE TO COME A FACTOR IN THE PRICE UPTURNS. JAPAN BOUGHT A LARGE VOLUME TODAY AND EGYPT UPPED THE VOLUME ON THEIR REBID TO 1.35 MILLION BUSHELS. OTHER LARGE VOLUME REBIDS ARE IN THE MAKING AND POLITICS MORE FRIENDLY TOWARDS CHINA.

CORN PRICES HIGHER TODAY, DESPITE VERY GOOD PROSPECTS OF BUMPER CROP AND VERY FLAT EXPORT SALES FOR THE PAST TWO WEEKS. CURRENT CASH PRICES SHOWED THE MOST ADVANCE AS SUPPLIES RELATIVELY LIGHT GOING INTO THIS HUGE HARVEST. LATEST CROP CONDITION REPORTS ON THE DOWN SIDE. COOL WEATHER AND RAINS STOPPED THE NORTHWARD TREK OF HARVEST AND DELAYED EXPECTED STARTING TIMES IN MANY FIELDS.

SOYBEANS HIGHER UNDER INFLUENCE OF TALKS ABOUT DECLINING CROP CONDITIONS. EARLY FROST COULD PUT A BIG HURT ON SOYBEAN PRODUCTION. LOW TEMPERATURES ALREADY REPORTED AT THE CANADIAN BORDER. ALSO CURRENT STOCKS OF SOYBEANS VERY TIGHT AND THIS MAKING FOR A RELATIVELY WIDE PRICE SPREAD BETWEEN CURRENT CASH BID AND NEW CROP QUOTES.

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

SEPTEMBER 5-11, 1994

GRANDMA MOSES DAY, SEPTEMBER 7.

QUITE A LADY

Anna Mary Robertson Moses was born on September 7, 1860, but the artist, Grandma Moses, was "discovered" in 1938. Although she dabbled in painting as a young farm wife (her first large work was a wooden fireplace cover and she used "the brush I painted the floor with"), Grandma took up painting in her seventies because arthritis prevented her from stitching the yarn pictures she loved to create. From such modest beginnings, this frail-looking but spritely old lady with the indominable spirit captured the hearts of Americans and Europeans alike. Her keen insight into nature and her pleasure in the simple things of life instilled hope in a war-weary world. Grandma Moses continued to paint until six months before she died on December 13, 1961.

. . . life is what we make it, always has been and always will be. — Grandma Moses

TIP OF THE WEEK

A damp sponge wiped over upholstered furniture removes pet hair better than vacuuming.

EARTHWISE

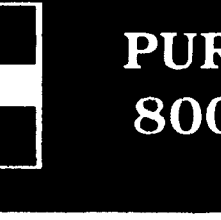
When your garden hose is cracked and leaky, there are many ways to recycle it. Punch holes at regular intervals and turn it into a soaker hose. Or slide lengths of hose over swing chains for a steadier grip and to prevent pinching little fingers in the links. Use sections of hose to insulate your lug wrench and jack handle and the next mid-winter tire change won't be such a frosty experience. Many other tools can benefit from a vinyl-coated handle. See what uses you can invent.

STRAWBERRIES WITH YOGURT SNOW

1 cup plain lowfat yogurt
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 egg white
2 tablespoons sugar
6 cups whole fresh strawberries

Mix yogurt, lemon juice, and vanilla together. Beat the egg white until stiff, then beat in sugar. Continue beating until mixture is glossy and forms stiff peaks. Fold in yogurt. Wash and hull strawberries. Place berries in sherbert dishes and top each with yogurt snow. Serve immediately.

Makes 6 servings.



The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

NORTHEAST: Rainy and cold, partial clearing, mild, then more rain and cooler

SOUTHEAST: Hot and mostly sunny coast, showers Florida, cooler, showers west, then clearing.

MIDWEST: Cold, rainy, then warming to seasonable

NORTHWEST: Sunny and warm, showers east, then rainy and cold

SOUTHWEST: Cool and rainy California, warm south; sunny and warm desert, showers and cold mountains

OPINION

Responsibility For Actions

Some time ago, a man from New Jersey was arrested for killing a rat in his garden. He faced up to one year in jail, along with a heavy fine.

For farmers who face the destructiveness of rats and mice in feed supplies and corn cribs, and for health officials who face the diseases spread by these animals, the situation in New Jersey is absurd. To arrest someone for killing vermin is beyond comprehension. To add fines and jail time places these animals on a level with humans, a development that has not been historically acceptable.

But in these situations, anger must be controlled. Some people responded by placing dead animals and animal parts on the lawn of the person who issued the two complaints of animal cruelty. This reaction did nothing to bring a sensible conclusion. When the people who claim the higher moral ground lower themselves to breaking the law, they lose the right to make their higher claim.

Certianly we need to use all our mental and spiritual powers to correct injustice. But we have a responsibility to control our actions. Otherwise we become living proof that those who want to make animals our superiors are correct in their thinking.

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Remember Arnold Lueck

This week Lancaster County lost a very valuable friend. Arnold Lueck, retired Lancaster County agricultural extension agent, passed away after a lengthy battle with cancer.

Arnie was a one of a kind person. He loved people and his work. His knowledge of plants, bees, and horticulture was only surpassed by very few. No question was too small or silly and he went to great lengths to help people understand how to deal with their problems.

There are many Arnie stories from trying to pass a rock off for a potato in judging contests to writing his various newspaper columns in his car at the Farm and Home Center parking lot. His desk and office contained volumes of paper that set new standards for filing.

Arnie made a difference in Lancaster County agriculture. He was instrumental in establishing the county's wine industry, eradicating blue mold in tobacco, and helping many farmers improve their agronomic practices. This unselfish, very friendly and sincere individual will long be remembered in pleasant memories and husbandry practices.

To Prepare For Corn Silage Harvesting

To ensure high quality corn silage is harvested this fall, do not wait until the last minute to get harvest equipment ready. Be prepared to fill the silo fast once harvest begins.

The old saying, "fill 'em fast and seal 'em tight" makes the best silage and minimizes losses due to spoilage.

Now is the time to get harvesting machinery ready. Test choppers and blowers and be sure all wagons are in good repair. Looking now for possible items which are worn and might break under stress and replacing them before harvest will save time and reduce your stress during harvest.

Remember, this year's corn crop will add stress to your equipment. Corn silage harvesting equipment works best when it is sharp and adjusted according to the manufacturing specifications.

Dull knives shred rather than cut forage. This requires more power, increases stress on equipment, and produces a silage which does not pack as well in the silo.

During harvest, think safety first. Keep guards in place at all times. Turn tractor and machine off before making any adjustments or attempting to unplug a clogged harvester.

To Keep Heifers From First Calf Heifers

Beef herds on heifer AI programs are finding that the replacement heifers retained from first calf heifers provide the best genetics, combined with low birth weight EPDs and high maternal value, according to Chester Hughes, extension livestock agent.

Since these heifers are sired by calving ease sires, a majority of them will reduce frame size and be earlier maturing than heifers from mature cows. If your management is on target, these heifers will often be the older ones, ready to bred before the main cowherd.

In fact, one common mistake producers may make is selecting heifers on adjusted weaning weights. This could lead to having many younger heifers in your replacement group. These heifers could be 45 days younger than the majority of your calf crop and may not reach puberty in time to breed them ahead of the cow herd.

By choosing older heifers, you may avoid these problems. Good replacement heifers are certainly worth the expense of raising them. Knowing the genetic potential of the heifers and cows in your herd can help you make important selection and culling decisions.

THE SCARLET CORD

THE SCARLET CORD
September 4, 1994

Background Scripture:
Joshua 1 through 2
Devotional Reading:
Joshua 1:1-9

When I was in junior high, I idolized my pastor, Mark J. Steirwald. If it had not been for him — and a pretty brunette named "Jackie" — I wouldn't have even been part of that church. At first, I went there because Jackie was there; I stayed there because Pastor Steirwald showed me that one can be a Christian and still have fun. Up to that time it was my perception that churches were grim places where people looked unhappy and acted negatively.

When, a few years later, Mark Steirwald died suddenly of a heart attack, I was devastated. When it was announced that he would be succeeded by the Rev. Paul Price, I was certain that he could not possibly fill Pastor Steirwald's shoes. And he didn't; in fact, he never tried to. He went on, rather, to perform his ministry differently than his predecessor, but no less successfully. So, both of these men, each in his own way, had a tremendous effect upon my life and ultimately my own ministry.

I can appreciate than, what may have loomed large in the minds of the people of Israel when, upon the death of Moses, it was announced that Joshua would be his successor. Certainly there must have been those who said, "He can never be the leader Moses was!", who thought that with Moses gone they would never see the promised land.

"WITH YOU"

But, whatever doubts and fears there might have been, Israel followed Joshua's leadership. God's special servant, Moses, was gone, but God was still with them. The promise God had made to Moses was renewed with Joshua: "Every place that the sole of your foot will tread upon I have given to you, as I promised Moses" (1:3). Best of all although Moses was gone, God was not: "As I was with Moses, so I will be with you; I will not fail or forsake you" (1:5).

So, because the Israelites recognized God behind Joshua's leadership, they committed themselves to their new leader. Joshua busily set about to prepare the great campaign in the promised land and, as a prudent military strategy, sent out two spies to Jericho.

Why did these two spies pick the home of a prostitute? One reason was probably that in the atmosphere of her house they would overhear information and secrets that would be hard to come by elsewhere. Actually, it was a perfect place to hide and spy. At any rate, Rahab did conspire with Joshua's spies in exchange for their promise that no harm would come to her.

A SHADY CHARACTER?

So, Rahab was a prostitute, consorted with the enemy and committed treason against her own city. Why would the Old Testament commemorate such a shady character? Because, despite her lowly character, she recognized the God who stood behind these two spies and the twelve tribes of Israel. "I know that the Lord has given you the land. . ." (2:9). "For the Lord your God is he who is God in heaven above and on earth beneath (2:12). Strong as were the ties of citizenship, her relationship with God was even more important to her.

Even this prostitute was wise enough to recognize that the claims of God on one's life are of the highest priority. Lots of respectable, intelligent people in this world have never figured that out. Their politics or ideology precedes their theology — or distorts it.

For her protecion, the spies tell Rahab to hang a scarlet cord in her window so that the destruction that is to fall upon Jericho will not come upon her or her house. This is reminiscent of what Israel had experienced in Egypt: Moses told the Israelites to put some blood of the Passover lambs on the doorposts and lintels of their houses so that God's destruction would pass over them. (Exodus 12:7,13)

The scarlet cord hung in the window of a lowly prostitute was the medium of her salvation. She recognized the God who stood behind Israel; the Lord recognized the woman worth saving behind the visage of the prostitute.

Potato Blight Meeting

She said that she estimates severe losses of Potter County's 1,400 acres of potatoes and large losses to Erie County's estimated 3,300 acres.

"This disease has probably been the most well known disease on potatoes," Christ said, noting that normally producers use fungacides effectively to control the fungus which can easily be transported through infected seed potatoes.

In fact, she said that since the disease had been known to have been a problem in the potato-seed producing areas of the Northeast last year, it is likely that infected seed potatoes could well be one of the reasons for the widespread spread of the fungus.

The weather complicated things also, she said, creating favorable conditions for the fungus to attack the plants as rapidly and thoroughly as happened.

But, Christ said this is apparantly also a new, unidentified strain of late blight disease fungus, and the outlook should cause some concern.

According to Christ, the typical strain of fungus that typically causes late blight disease reproduces asexually and therefore has a stable genetic pool.

This new strain reproduces sexually and has more genetic variety and has a much stronger potential to become resistant to weather conditions and treatments.

She said that DNA testing and futher identification procedures need to be performed in order to know for sure that it is a new strain.

Producers are urged to attend the meeting. State Secretary of Agriculture Boyd Wolff, or a high-ranking designee, is to attend, according to state PDA officials. Representatives of lending institutions, federal agricultural agencies and all with an interest in the Pennsylvania potato producer are invited to learn more about the problem and what can be done.

"For Pennsylvania, it's been over 15 years since any significant epidemic (of late blight)," Christ said. "This is the first year in many years when it is a problem."

The new White 445 Chisel Plow makes complying with residue guidelines and requirements easy. Options like rippled coulters and chisel points set at 15" spacing leave lots of residue. Concave coulters and twisted shovels set at 12" spacing leave less residue. And these are just a few of the combinations available.

Our deep-till shank option rips hardpan by tilling 4" to 6" inches deeper than chisel shanks. This reduces compaction problems. And our leveling bar option provides a smoother surface for your next pass.

With nine models, there's a model with the options to match your residue management plans.

White Row Crop Cultivators are designed for high speed

Subject: Big Dutchman Outperforms Competitors

After tabulating the results of many layer flocks nationwide, we now have positive proof that Big Dutchman systems outperform all major competing systems.

Unlike what competition has been claiming with absolutely no proof, we have all the facts to back up our statements.

Spread the word! Anyone considering a new building or remodeling an older house can be assured that Big Dutchman offers these advantages.

★ More Eggs Per Bird
★ Larger Eggs
★ Less Electrical Expense
★ Better Feed Conversion
★ Less Mortality
★ Cleaner Eggs

All these facts mean that a Big Dutchman system installed by Hershey will save money in operating expenses. The contract grower also receives a larger bonus payment!

Results are not from some small test house but are based on a blend of results from coast to coast, north to south.

DON'T WASTE YOUR MONEY!

More Eggs Per Bird And Better Feed Conversion Puts Money In Your Pocket!

Average	97 Bu/A	56.6 lb/Bu	$7.76	$18.00	$25.76
% Advantage	6%	6%

A lot of effort and resources go into your growing investment. There's the labor to plant, monitor and harvest your crop. The tremendous investment in land and equipment. And the knowledge and experience you've accumulated over the years.

With all that's riding on your choice, you'll want a wheat variety that will produce for you in the field. And none surpass Hoffman 89.

Superior Test Weights. In three-year trials conducted by Penn State and the University of Maryland, Hoffman 89 registered the top test weight across all locations, in some cases approaching 62 lb/Bu. In Lancaster County trials, its 59.8 lb/Bu performance produced test weight savings of $7.76.

Yield. Superior test weight isn't the only advantage offered by Hoffman 89. In Centre County, it delivered 83 Bu/A—12% above the average. So you'd save $27 per acre using Hoffman 89.

Averaging the results of both trials, you'd earn $26.38 more per acre with Hoffman 89.

Make sure you get the most out of your investment by planting a proven winner — Hoffman 89. Just another way we add value to your seed investment.

Supporters Golf For FFA At Tournament, Auction

Nearly everything on hand went up for auction. In one instance, the state FFA officers donated $33 for the purchase of leftover cupcakes made by Kerry Hoffman.

All 11 state officers were present at the tournament and benefit auction. They contributed their time by helping coordinate the golf outing and performing a wide range of services on behalf of the fundraiser.

At the auction, items sold ranged from a Nittany Lion football autographed by Joe Paterno, which went for $200; FFA trucks (a pair for $130); three die-cast tractors ($150); specially prepared meats to various sports events tickets; table arrangements; and other items.

At the auction, Glenn Wenger, Wenger's Farm Machinery, was honored for his support of the state FFA.

Jenny Zerby, state president, conducted the meeting before the auction. She thanked the sponsors of the various contests and supporters of FFA. "It was you, the efforts of our sponsors, that has made the FFA Association so strong," said Zerby. "It is on behalf of the FFA that I thank you."

The golf tournament was designed as an 18-hole, shotgun-start scramble, following shot played from "best ball." In all, there were 96 golfers split into about 21 teams.

Prizes were awarded. One prize featured a car for a hole-in-one on #8. The closest any golfer came was about three feet.

In the "Pink Lady" contest (which featured a pink ball rotated by team members throughout the tournament), best team was composed of Greg Hostetter, Dan Brown, Jerry Hostetter, and Jim McPeak.

First place team consisted of Dave Huston, Steven Moran, John Coldiron, and Scott Gold. The second place team consisted of Gerald Piper, Jamie Fickes, Doug Lehman, and Randy Billman. Third place ended in a tie, with the first team consisting of Dave Elliott, Dean Allison, John Brown, and Jeff Lowry. The other team was composed of Amos Fisher and Tom Wingard.

Other contests included a hole-in-one, par three, longest drive (men's and ladies), longest putt on #18 (men's and ladies), a putting contest, and other activities.

State officers present included Laurie J. Wildman, north central region vice president; Chad Slusser, state treasurer; Kelli S. Zeigler, south central vice president; Theresa M. Inhoff, eastern region vice president; Marci Harnish, state vice president; Heidi E. Dahlhammer, state secretary; Traci M. Lobaugh, state reporter; James F. McConnaughey, western regional vice president; Jenny Zerby, state president; Tony Miller, state sentinel; and Ben Dodd, state chaplain.

Lewis Shows Grand Champion

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.) — Scott Lewis, in his final year of 4-H competition, captured grand champion market hog honors at the Wayne County Fair on August 11.

His champion entry, a 262-pound Hamp/Duroc crossbred gilt, was described by show judge Ken Fetterolf, Centre Hall as an extremely lean hog with a tremendous loin, one of the best he had seen all summer.

Lewis' champion was also champion heavyweight. Scott also was awarded the champion showman honor in the showmanship competition held on August 9.

Showmanship judge was Matt Zerby, Beavertown.

Lewis credits his experiences showing around the state, including the Farm Show and Keystone International Livestock Exposition, for teaching him how to pick and show a champion hog. Scott is a member of the Pleasant Mount Go-Getters 4-H Club.

Reserve champion honors went to Eric Smith on a Hamp/Duroc crossbred barrow weighing 242 pounds. This is Eric's first champion. Eric is a member of the Cherry Ridge 4-H Club.

Erin Kilker showed her 249-pound York/Duroc hog to reserve champion showman honors. Erin is a member of the Pleasant Mount Go-Getters 4-H Club.

In the junior livestock sale, 186 hogs were sold. Lewis' champion brought $4 per pound and sold to Dr. Henry Nebzydoski, veterinarian. Smith's reserve champion brought $3.95 per pound and sold to The Honesdale National Bank. Overall, 186 hogs averaged $1.40 per pound.

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Pennmore is a soft red winter wheat variety developed by the Pennsylvania Agricultural Experiment Station and released in 1992.

Certified seed will be available in the fall of 1994. The cross giving rise to Pennmore was made in mid-1970. The initial selection that became Pennmore was made in 1981.

After additional selection, breeders seed was produced and Pennmore was entered in the state grain trials in 1987.

Performance has been outstanding in southeastern Pennsylvania where average grain yield was about 17-percent higher than that of Tyler and test weight was 5-percent better than that of Tyler. Plant height, maturity, and lodging resistance are comparable to Tyler.

Based on field observations, Pennmore has moderate resistance to leaf rust and moderate susceptibility to powdery mildew. Pennmore has very good milling properties and good baking properties based on evaluations conducted at the Soft Wheat Quality Laboratory in Wooster, Ohio. Authorized seed classes will be breeder, foundation, and certified.

Pa. All-American Dairy Show Set

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The 31st annual Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show is to kickoff Monday, Sept. 26 with the Pennsylvania Junior Dairy Show, and be followed by three days of dairy cattle shows, youth contests and an ever-growing trade show.

"The Pennsylvania All-American is a forum for high level competition," said Obie Snider, president of the Pennsylvania Dairy and Allied Industry Association, which sponsors the event. "Each year cattle from over 20 states and Canada travel to Harrisburg to parade on the tanbark. This year will be no exception."

The weeklong event is filled with a calendar of activites such as judging contests, the junior dairy management contest, cattle sales, shows, and a country craft show.

Premium lists and entry forms are available by contacting the All-American Dairy Show at (717) 787-2905.

The trade show has been expanded by officials since last year, motivated by increased participation by agribusiness, changes in floor space and services to visiting dairy farmers.

The new addition to the Farm Show Complex, the northeast building, has created more space for commercial exhibits. Now visitors to the show can see and purchase items ranging from cattle trailers to show halters, feed, aritificial insemination services, and products used daily on the farm.

"It is a concentrated market," said Lolly Lesher, fund raising coordinator for the All-American. "Visitors at the All-American Dairy Show are actively involved in the dairy industry, mostly in the production end. Thus, businesses can have an impact with many dairymen in four days.

"It is an opportunity to meet a specific market. There is still a limited amount of space avialable," she said in a recent news release. For more information, call the dairy show number, (717) 787-2905.

Vaccinations

The All-American Dairy Show is expected to see a strong showing, despite earlier concerns about bovine virus diarrhea (BVD).

According to show manager, Charlie Itle, "As in the past, current vaccinations against shipping fever, including IBR, must have been administered, not less than 15 days prior to the show; or five days within the opening of the show with a hyperimmune IBR Shipping Fever serum.

"Also, in accordance with the recommendation of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Animal Industry, all cattle must have proof of two vac-

Corn Research Featured

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — The test plots at the DEKALB Northeast and Mid-Atlantic research farm were open to farmers Wednesday at a special field day to show the advanced work in plant genetics and bio-tech work that will result in corn plants resistant to insects and herbicides.

Brent Godshalk, station manager and corn breeder, told the group of 300 farmers that the major research emphasis on the farm is for such things as yield, grain quality, stalk standability and health, and seed size. "Farmers don't want to get docked at the market," Godshalk said. "So we work here to develop hybrids that meet the farmers' needs."

To develop the genetics in a variety that eventually is released for commercial use, it takes from 13 to 15 years of generational development. DEKALB has nine testing locations in Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Delaware to find varieties that will work well in this local area.

In the bio-tech effort, plants are being developed with the BT gene that causes the corn borer to die if the insect eats the leaves or silk of these plants. Other work is being done on corn plants that resist herbicides. In addition, grain nutritional value and stalk drought resistance are being developed through gene manipulation in the plants.

At the Manheim site, specific research is done on inbred and hybrid development, disease screening, and silage testing. The 90 acre farm also provides a place for farmers to visit to see the new research developments. This was the reason for the field day.

Ivan Represents National Board

Dave Ivan

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Dave Ivan, executive director of the Pennsylvania Beef Council, has been elected executives' representative to the executive board of the National Livestock and Meat Board (NLMB), based in Chicago, Ill.

Ivan will represent the country's 44 individual state beef councils as liaison to the NLMB and implementing various Meat Board commodity promotion activities on a regional and local level.

"In my role, I will serve as a liaison between state beef councils and the Meat Board, as well as other national beef organizations such as the Beef Board," said Ivan.

In a telephone interview last week with Lancaster Farming, Ivan spoke about the efforts to "roll out" beef promotional efforts statewide.

One of the efforts helped the beef industry promote products at a time, Ivan said, in June when the market "bottomed out" because of a "heavy supply situation." Prices at the market fell dramatically for beef producers. At that time, Pennsylvania and 16 other states joined in a "test market" promotion effort involving coupons worth $1 off the price of special beef cuts.

A recent promotional effort focused on the Fox's Supermarket Chain in Middletown and Harrisburg, according to Ivan, to provide promotional coupons in markets through the region. Ongoing are weekly newspaper promotional efforts, as well as newspaper, radio, and television promotional spots in urban markets in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

Ivan said that a primary focus of his appointment would be helping with the long-range consolidation plan of the National Cattlemen's Association, the Meat Board, the Meat Export Federation, and the Beef Board. He said that the establishment of an official liaison between the state offices and the National Board occurred four years ago. The primary purpose is to ensure that state and national programs work in tandem, as well as to act as a "sounding board" for various administrative issues which may develop. Ivan will help review how national plans can be implemented at the state level.

"As a result of the merger of the four national organizations, what happens at the state level?" said Ivan. "One of the plans is to help 'roll out' national campaigns at the state level."

Also, Ivan will provide feedback from the state commodity

cinations against BVD during the past six months.

"The most recent inoculation is to be no less than 15 days and no more than 45 days prior to the show. The BVD vaccine may be part of a multivalent vaccine against shipping fever," Itle said.

For more information regarding the health rules for Pennsylvania and out-of-state cattle, see page 8 of the 1994 Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show Premium List.

In other business, Itle said, "The floor in the main exhibition area has been removed, and we are gearing up for a great show. Again, the Pennsylvania Fall Championship Holstein Show will fill the Large Arena on Tuesday."

2-Year-Old Wins Holstein Championship At Southeast 4-H Dairy Show

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

KUTZTOWN (Berks Co.) — Ruch Inspiration Cassie (S: Hanover-Hill Inspiration, D: Ruch Enhancer Chris, bred by Brian Ruch), shown by Aaron Ruch, Andreas, was named supreme champion Holstein at the 49th Annual Southeast 4-H Dairy Show here at the Kutztown Fairgrounds.

The animal, a senior 2-year-old, bested the reserve champion shown by Sara Hlavaty, Easton, exhibiting a senior 2-year-old, Keystone Southwind Gold (S: Southwind Bell of Bar-Lee, D: Keystone Tesk Glimmer, bred by Keystone Farm).

Holstein show judge Creedin Cornman, Carlisle, said he enjoyed the grand champion cow's "balance in the udder, high in rear, a real sharp dairy animal with a tremendous amount of strength throughout."

The Holstein show was smaller than last year's because of the recent concerns over bovine viral diarrhea (BVD), which kept the numbers of animals down.

Also, at the colored breeds show, Guernsey grand champion went to Karen A. Wolfgang and reserve to Timothy R. Smith. Jersey champion was awarded to Amy E. Plummer and reserve to Erica Louise Lloyd. Milking Shorthorn champion was Lizzie M. Moser and reserve was Jamie S. Yost. Ayrshire champion went to Jill Vail and reserve to Kathryn Elizabeth Young. Brown Swiss grand and reserve champion was Adam Spittler.

Two linebacks were also a part of the 4-H show for the first time in memory. They were shown by Meredith Baily, champion and Alison Krain, reserve.

At the show, 196 animals were exhibited by 4-H dairy club members from nine southeastern Pennsylvania counties, including Berks, Bucks, Chester, Delaware, Lehigh, Monroe, Montgomery, Northampton, and Schuylkill.

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

ALLENTOWN (Lehigh Co.) — Who said you had to be present to win the prize? While Laura Lazarus was at college studying biology, John, her brother, age 10, was doing her a favor. John showed his sister's champion Yorkshire gilt to supreme champion gilt on Thursday at the Allentown Fair Swine Show.

Laura, 18, daughter of Linda and Grant Lazarus, Germansville, is a freshman at Millersville University.

Judge Larry Arnold, a Hampshire and Duroc breeder from Womelsdorf, said the champion Yorkshire was above the average in terms of larger frame size, with more muscling.

Arnold picked a boar for supreme championship that he said "can really help you as far as a breeding hog." He selected the 350-pound Poland China boar shown by Tim Wessner, son of Barbara and Harlan Wessner, New Tripoli, who won last year's market hog champion at the show. Barbara said the hog is a River boar.

Market hog supreme champion was awarded to Jason Wisser, 17, son of Larry and Tutty Wisser, New Tripoli. The Yorkshire barrow cross, from Schick Farms, was picked champion heavyweight, and weighed 250 pounds. This is his first market championship at Allentown, and he intends to show at Farm Show and Reading.

The Wednesday market show featured 111 hogs. Total hogs shown in both the market and breed hogs were about 327, with a total of 42 exhibitors.

Following is a list of show placings.

Tioga Fair Milk, Livestock Auction Held

C.J. Houghtaling
Tioga Co. Correspondent

WHITNEYVILLE (Tioga Co.) — Items and animals on the auction block at the Junior 4-H and FFA Milk Auction and Livestock Sale during the Tioga County Fair recently were fewer in number, but fetched a higher price overall, marking another successful year for the sellers.

It was the fourth year for the Milk Auction which featured a gallon of milk from each of the Grand Champion dairy cows exhibited by 4-H or FFA members. Proceeds from the auction were split three ways with 25% going to the exhibitor, 25% to the exhibitor's club/chapter, and 50% to Tioga County 4-H and FFA educational events.

While the highest price for a gallon of milk did not top or even match last year's record bid of $560 from the Grand Champion Jersey, the dollar amount garnered from each of the other lots participating in the sale were considerably higher, making the 1994 total grossed another record year.

Milk from the Grand Champion Guernsey, Castle's King Flash Gloria, a senior three-year-old owned by David Kriner of Mansfield brought in the highest bid with $420 from Gabe Greco of Greco's Super Duper. Greco, an avid supporter of the auction, was also the highest bidder the two previous years.

Kriner has been a member of 4-H for five years and FFA for four and has been an FFA secretary for two of those years. Experienced in showing cattle, he has participated in the District and State shows three times. Last year he also had the Grand Champion Guernsey and the money he earned from the Tioga County Fair was used to buy another calf for this year.

Bids for the milk from the Grand Champion Ayrshire, Brown Swiss, and Jersey each brought $350.

Check-R-Board purchased the milk that came from Plum Bottom Rita P., a three-year-old Ayrshire owned by Derek Long of Lawrenceville. Long has been a 4-H member for seven years and said that to him, the organization means "having fun working with cattle and sharing what I learned with others." Long's cow was named Reserve Grand Champion Ayrshire in the fair's open show.

("4-H is a) very good learning experience and teaches responsibility," according to Middlebury Center resident Jason Butler who has been a 4-H'er for six years. His Grand Champion Brown Swiss milk from two-year-old

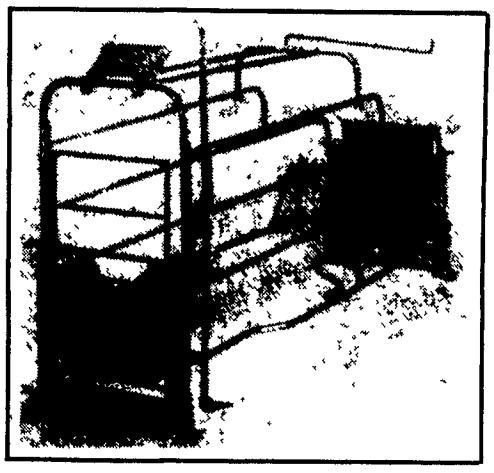
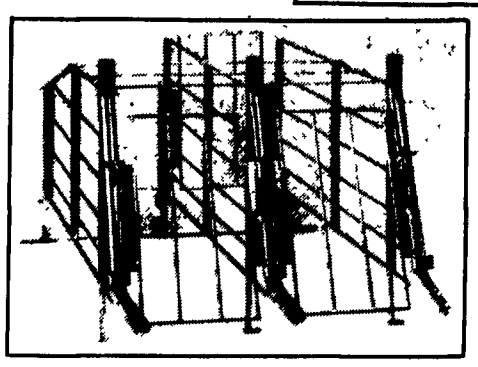
PIG SAVER "DUTCH CRATE"

Developed through testing in our research farms the goal was to develop a crate that nearly eliminates crushing, due to lay ons, unmatched durability and be easy to work around. All this has been achieved by a unique gravity flipprail that forces sows to lie down slowly and using stainless steel for rear doors and legs, proven horizontal and solid steel rod construction. All this at a reasonable cost. Crate also can be installed on an angle.



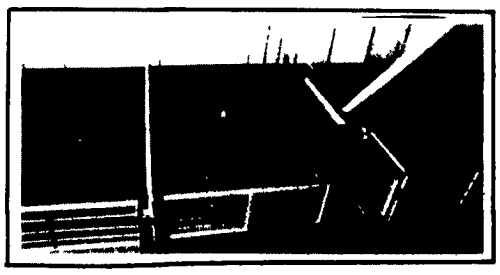


CONFINEMENT STALL

Developed recently in our R&D farm. Our goals were convenience, safety and durability. The low back and flat top rails are easy to reach over with no sharp edges. Stainless steel rear legs and front feet along with solid steel horizontal rods through punched uprights provide the strongest, most durable stall ever produced by Tri-County (21"-24" O.C. x 86")

NURSERY PENNING

Nursery penning has been improved by the use of an optional solid stainless steel panel on the front gates which keeps walkways clean. Stainless steel verticals on penning eliminates corrosion where penning attaches to the floor. Stainless steel drinker pipes & mounting brackets also increase durability.



FINISHING PENNING

Optional stainless steel verticals and fasteners offer improved durability over other similar types of penning. Loop and flapper latch arrangement eliminates the use of drop pins. Stainless steel fence line feeders provide excellent durability and a minimum of waste.

Huntingdon County Holds Dairy Shows

GAIL STROCK
Mifflin Co. Correspondent

HUNTINGDON (Huntingdon Co.) — The Huntingdon County Fair dairy shows were held recently at the Huntingdon County Fairgrounds, with a strong showing, and a returning champion in the Holstein breed of the open division competition.

The 4-H and FFA dairy shows were held Monday, August 14, while the open division show followed Tuesday.

Judges for the open class dairy shows were Patty McMurray and Gary Rodgers.

Open Division

The returning open division Holstein grand champion was 5-year-old My Favorite Vanguard Kandi, owned by Naomi Speer, of Blairs Mills.

The judges also selected last year's reserve grand champion as the 1994 reserve grand champion Holstein. The 4-year-old Globe Run Top Gun Oslo, was shown by Lory Baker. It was also the grand champion Holstein of the 4-H and FFA shows.

Aaron Gable showed the grand champion Guernsey and the junior champion, while Snider Homestead showed the reserve grand champion and the reserve junior champion.

In the Jersey show, Kendy Gable showed the grand champion and junior champion, while Jason

Maria went to the Middlebury Milk Coop.

The milk from Eastmont Juno Debbie, the two-year-old Grand Champion Jersey owned by Samantha Wilcox of Covington, went to Sunnydale. To Samantha, 4-H means, "many opportunities and meeting new people. It's a lot of hard work, but in the end it's worth it."

A seven year veteran of 4-H, Olivia Courtney of Mansfield said, "4-H gives me an opportunity to make new friends and it allows me to represent my family's farm in a way in which I can be proud. It also allows me to represent the dairy industry in a positive way that may help in educating others about agriculture."

This was the third year in a row for Courtney in the milk auction. Judson's Agway of Columbia Cross Roads paid $325 for the milk from Esbern Enhancer Bute Buddy, Courtney's five-year-old Holstein.

One of the activities the milk auction proceeds sponsored in 1993 was a field trip to Penn State University in which 63 Tioga County 4-H'ers and leaders visited the campus and attended the 69th Penn State Dairy Exposition, a day-long exhibition of dairy fitting, judging, and showing contests sponsored by the Penn State Dairy Science Club. Those attending also toured the Penn State Dairy Breeding and Research Center and The Deer Research Area, attended the Blue and White football game, and enjoyed Penn State's "Creamery" ice cream.

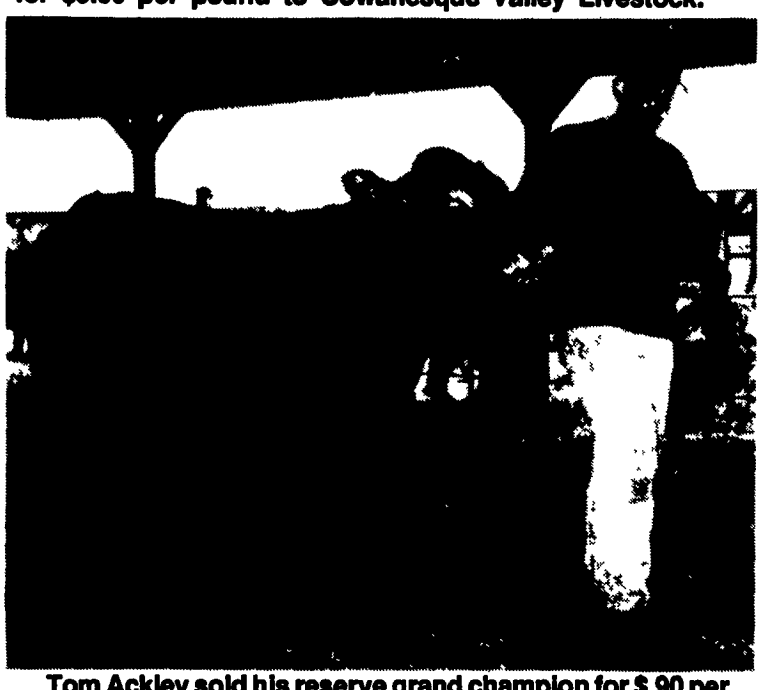
Preceding the milk auction a "sheep-to-shawl" garment was auctioned with the proceeds benefiting the Tioga County Historical Society. Following the Milk Auction, a basket, hand-woven by Jackie Gummo of Wellsboro, containing a small child's T-shirt with "MILK" emblazoned on it, along with a selection of milk and cheese products and a small jug of maple syrup sold with the proceeds split between the committees for the Milk and Livestock auctions.

While the number of entries in the Junior Livestock Sale were down slightly from the previous year, the prices paid for the market hogs and market lambs were considerably higher. In all, there were 54 entries from 33 Junior exhibitors with 35 buyers bringing in a total of $17,826. The money exhibitors receive from selling their animals is used to expand their livestock enterprise and to further their education.

During the Livestock Sale, "Ernie," a market hog trained to lead on a leash, was donated by George Grater of Lawrenceville for the auction to help raise money for improvements on the hog facility at the fairgrounds. "Ernie was sold for three times, once to Greco's Super Duper, once to Associated Brokers of Wellsboro, and a third time to Stan Graver and Walker's Tire Service for a total of $580."

A special buyers recognition banquet will be held on the fairgrounds Wednesday, Oct. 26 for all Auction supporters and exhibitors.

Matthew Nickeson sold his grand champion market lamb for $5.00 per pound to Cowanesque Valley Livestock.



Tom Ackley sold his reserve grand champion for $.90 per pound to First Citizen's National Bank.

Matthew Wilcox sold his reserve grand champion market lamb for $3.50 per pound to Citizen's and Northern National Bank.

Amanda Graves had both the grand and reserve grand champion market hogs. The grand champion, shown, went to Ackley Construction for $3.25 per pound, and the reserve champion went to Cornell Brothers' Agway for $2.00 per pound.

Your Farm Credit Banker. Nobody Knows The Field Better.

Sure, you'll find Farm Credit bankers all buttoned up, ready to talk short- or long-term loans, mortgages and sophisticated lines of credit.

But underneath the shirt and tie, you'll find the one thing the other banks don't offer. A fellow farmer.

Most Farm Credit loan officers were born and raised on farms and got their college degrees from ag schools. Nearly all of them grew up with 4-H and the Future Farmers of America.

And, if that's not enough, every single one of our loan officers goes through the toughest ag lending training program in America.

That means when you talk to a Farm Credit loan officer about any kind of ag loan, you won't have to spend your time translating farming to banking.

Farm Credit loan officers understand farming as well as they understand finances. And because they have the same loan closing authority as many local bank presidents, they can get the job done fast.

So when you need competitive rates or creative options, see your local Farm Credit banker. Because nobody knows the field better.

organizations, which represent 44 states nationwide, to the NLMB.

Ivan was elected at the annual meeting of the NLMB in mid-August in Chicago. The board also approved a budget for fiscal year 1995 and elected officers.

Joining the NLMB as chairman is Jim Hauge, a Leith, N.D. pork and beef producer. Directors elected included Ray Larson, Maple Park, Ill., chairman-elect; George Spencer, Sioux City, Iowa, secretary-treasurer; and past chairman Polly Owen, a Beavercreek, Ore., cattle producer who will serve as a member of the executive board.

Officers for the beef industry council who also serve on the executive board include Ron Curtis, Hastings, Iowa; Max Deets, Beloit, Kan.; Ned Ellis, Ft. Deposit, Ala.; and Wanda Cooper, Rothbury, Mich., veal committee. Others to represent the council on the board include Marshall Collins, Colo.; Lee Hall, Ky.; George Hammond, Mont.; Greg Ibach, Neb.; Larry Oltjen, Kan.; and Don Sonnier, La.

Directors of the board also approved a fiscal year 1995 budget, with a beef promotion operating committee budget of $33.14 million. The 1995 budget reflects a projected $1.32 million decrease in revenue from state beef councils.

At the Chicago meeting, Larson, chairman-elect, said, "Our dollars are shrinking, and purchasing power is declining. We need to look beyond traditional means of funding and explore every opportunity for strong, ongoing marketing and educational alliances, both inside and outside the agricultural community."

The Force Behind The Poultry Industry's Success

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — It's difficult to separate the life story of Paul Whipple from the history of the poultry industry. The two are almost synonymous as Whipple, alias "Money Bags Whipple" was the catalyst in helping farmers make the poultry industry the giant industry that it is today.

For his achievements, Whipple's received the George Delp Award and he's been named Man of the Year by the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation.

Perhaps not as significant to the poultry industry but just as valuable to Whipple is that he and his wife Elva recently celebrated 50 years of marriage.

"Behind every successful man is a great woman," the saying goes.

And, Whipple is quick to praise his wife and lovingly refers to her as his "Million Dollar Baby."

Elva was the one who cared for the couple's four children while her husband crisscrossed counties in his diligent efforts to help farmers establish successful farming practices. She was the city gal who quickly adapted to working in the barn.

Of her switch from city to country, she said, "I was of the old school. I was taught that when you married, you did what your husband did. That you backed him up."

Despite his busy schedule, Whipple did his share of work on the farm. His wife said, "Many times he would be out plowing to 2 a.m. and then get up again at 5 a.m. to get the farm work done so he could go on the road to do his job."

Whipple was born and raised in Bradford County where he and his siblings continue to own the 129-acre farm that has been in the family since 1838.

"When I was young, we didn't have tractors. We stabbed corn by hand," Whipple said of his early years.

During the Depression Era, Whipple worked as a Guernsey herdsman In Spring Hill. Later, he and several neighboring young fellows moved to Chester County where he met Elva.

There was concern in 1943 about keeping people on the farm. Those fellows from 18-26-years of age who worked on the farm were draft exempt. Whipple returned to Bradford County where he was in charge of the milk route for a 1,400 acre farm in Towanda. Whipple married when he was 21 and Elva was 18¼ . They soon bought their own 105-acre farm and worked in poultry sales at a feed mill.

An ambitious young man, Whipple soon caught the attention of of the local Farm Credit office. In 1955, he was asked to run a branch office. A year later, Farm Credit asked him to cover Lancaster, Lebanon, and Dauphin counties.

It was a big step for the Whipples who knew everyone in Bradford County to choose to move to a new area. Especially since Whipple had been warned that Lancaster Countians were skeptical of newcomers.

"People said that Lancaster Countians were clannish and I'd never make it," Whipple said.

Being adventurous and liking challenges, Whipple decided to take the plunge. He put a three-day ad on his farm in the newspaper. Even though it wasn't the right time of the year to sell a farm, the farm sold immediately, Whipple said.

The Whipples moved to a farm in Lancaster County. "My boss wouldn't let me go out of the office until I learned to pronouce Lancaster properly and not like the tourists do," Whipple said.

Immediately, Whipple became acquainted with ag business people and became aggressive in helping farmers enlarge poultry operations.

"Money Bags Whipple," became his nickname as he became adept in handling contracts for Weaver's Poultry, Miller and Bushong, Kreiders', Wenger's, and other rapidly growing companies.

Whipple's secret to success was rooted in being a good listener. It did not matter if the person was Amish, old-order Mennonite, or an agri-business giant. Whipple took time to develop friendships with all.

Elva spends many hours in her colorful flower beds surrounding their Lancaster home. Although Whipple is supposedly retired, he still works long hours only now he doesn't charge for his consultation work with farmers.

The warning that local people were clannish proved wrong as Whipple soon became almost like a family member to many farmers and agri-business people.

All loans had to be approved by the Baltimore office, who had little understanding of the local agricultural community. Weekly, Whipple traveled to the Baltimore office to argue the case of local farmers and to explain that county farms cost more and that they were worth more than those in other areas.

Whipple helped farmers establish the first large broiler houses in the county. Temperature-controlled environments were a new concept in the industry and it took awhile before Penn State became convinced of the concept's practicality. But when Penn State saw the potential, they took steps to help farmers work out the kinks in the system. In 1959, Whipple became general manager for Keystone Credit.

In 1964, Miller and Bushong asked Whipple to work for them as credit manager. It was his job to develop a new broiler program for the company that was innovative but not like their competitor's Weaver's Poultry of New Holland.

Whipple devised the two-story 40x250-foot and the 40x400-foot poultry houses that he sold as a package deal that included every thing from equipment to construction and financing.

At first, banks weren't helping finance farming operations at all. But when they saw how lucrative that business could be, other banks jumped on the bandwagon.

To Whipple's dismay, people were getting credit that should not have been getting it. The easy credit heyday of the 1970s caused him great concern, said Whipple who believes the industry is paying for that today. FHA loans were given indiscrimately to good and bad managers and it backfired on the lender. Some lost their farms and the goverment lost money in the venture.

"I don't think we will ever see the easy credit of the '70s again," Whipple said. "The government is more interested in social problems than in helping farmers," he said.

When he first began farming, Whipple said that it was tough to make it financially. His pay check was only $65 a month for working on the farm. "But if you were a hard worker and a good manager, you could start out without a penny and make it," Whipple said.

Today, a new farmer couldn't do that without a lot of good lucky breaks.

A degree was not required when Whipple began his financial career. He did take several Penn State short courses over the years, but most of his expertise was gained from on-the-job experience.

He's proud that people say his two sons are a chip off the old block. Both are CPAs. The couples two daughters also earned a college degree.

"We paid the tuition and board for each of children and it was the best investment that we ever made," Whipple said. That doesn't mean the children didn't work. They held summer jobs and saved their money for books and additional expenses. The sons learned to change oil and grease their own cars, which they continue to do today, Whipple said.

Whipple considers that he is on the conservative side when it comes to spending money.

"I pick up pennies and straighten nails," he said of his thriftiness. He doesn't buy new cars. Twice in his lifetime, he has taken a hunting trip to Montana, but not for the last 10 years.

At the same time, Whipple said that he doesn't approve of being stingy with money. In his position, he sometimes saw farmers who sacrificed everything to purchase another farm. Some did not properly clothe and feed their children because buying another farm was a priority.

In 1984, Whipple began working for Agri-General as a financial consultant.

Whipple is an outside director and on the audit and compliance committee for York Farm Credit. He's been with the Ag Preserve since the beginning, is treasurer of the executive committee for Farmland Trust, and on the Ag Issues board. He is also a church trustee, and manages a 38,000 square foot complex.

Although retired, Whipple continues to work as a consultant only now he does it gratis.

"I like helping people. It gives me great satisfaction to see farmers succeed," he said.

It also brings him much pleasure in knowing that he had a part in helping the poultry industry making a better life for many people.

Many of the companies for which he worked held retirement parties and gave him a clock. "Now I have a clock in every room," Whipple said of the many clocks awarded him. He also has many plaques noting his work for the agricultural industry.

On being a farm wife -And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

How vividly I remember that first September day of first grade for our first child.

Determined to be brave and nonchalant about this whole new path on which she was embarking, I was relieved to have succeeded as she waved goodbye, boarded the big yellow bus, and never glanced back. Until I got home, spied the forgotten pencil box, and could no longer hold back the tears.

One of the best ways for me to cope with the traumas of constantly changing new paths in life is to take a walk down a comforting old, "beaten" one. We have numerous such beaten paths about the farm, permanently worn from daily use by cattle hooves, pets' paws, tractor, and equipment tires, and of course, the soles of barn boots and sneaker treads.

My favorite is our hard-packed field road which bounds fields of hay, corn and soybeans, traverses a small woodlot and curves through the heifers' pasture. Though its path remains constant, diversions along the wayside constantly vary, dependent on season and weather.

With dusk arriving earlier now each evening, walks along that beaten path in the fading light offer lots more appeal than pulling garden weeds. Solomon and I headed there for the first time in weeks one recent evening as the sky was beginning to darken and dew already wetting the grass.

Below the house, the path forms a boundary between a field of late, tasseling corn and the small stream opposite. Already the air was already chilly and damp, making welcome the sweatshirt I'd grabbed on the way out. In the heaviness of that still, moist air, the aroma of corn plants setting seed was almost overwhelming, a fragrance more enticing to farmers' noses than the costliest perfume.

It grew warmer where path ascended through the woods. Once crisscrossed with the beaten paths of our son's three-wheeler trails, the woodlot has hidden those traces of his earlier years withi creeping briarpatches and low-hanging wild grapes. Paths here are now more subtle narrow ones shaped by the shy doe who grazes the alfalfa and fat groundhogs waddling through the underbrush.

Sudenly I missed my four-legged companion. He loves these walks and usually leads the way; some very important doggy-distraction must have come up. A dark, brushy-tailed shadow slipping moments later across the dark meadow offers a clue. Solomon, for whatever reason, is afraid of the foxes half his size. This one plays around in the pasture grass, seemingly unaware it has a spectator, until I move higher back the path for a better view. There waits Solomon and the brushy-tailed shadow vanishes.

It reminds me of a recent encounter on another beaten path, one of the worn cow trails from the dairy herd's pasture. Headed toward the edge of the woods to herd in the cows for evening milking, I spied a squirrel blithely hopping in my direction along the same path I was following. While I stopped, the squirrel, intent on his pursuits, continued to within about four feet of me.

Suddenly it sat up on its back feet, curiously gaxing at me straight in the eye — no doubt wondering what kind of strange cow this was. Only when I laughed did the squirrel do a double-take and flee with a derisive flick of the tail at this alien, two-legged pasture intruder. But we found no squirrels on this dusk walk across the beaten path. Just a peaceful evening colored with the pink hues of sunset.

Life is a constant following of branching paths, some taken by choice, others laid beneath our feet by fate. How comforting and reassuring to flee briefly from the more hectic paths, to steal a moment of serenity along a favorite old beaten one.

Mmm! The taste of butter in pastry is a special treat that some have given up, while using margarine or shortening that is more healthy. Right?

Doubts have come up about the wisdom of the switch, though, as a recent commentary criticized the trans fatty acids present in hydrogenated fats, such as margarine and shortening.

Trans fatty acids are formed when liquid vegetable oils, like soybean and corn oils are processed to become solid at room temperature. In this process, called hydrogenation, hydrogen is added to the chemical structure of the oil. Unsaturated oils are turned into more saturated fat, and, with a subtle difference in the chemical makeup some trans fatty acids. Fats that are naturally hard at room temperature have cis not trans fatty acids.

To reduce heart disease among Americans, the Dietary Guidelines by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services recommend eating less saturated fat. Partially hydrogenated margarines, containing less saturated fat than butter, became widely used by consumers. Also the food industry used partially hydrogenated oils to reduce the saturated fat content of baked and fried foods, e.g. cookies, crackers, and chips, and to cut cost. Now partially hydrogenated vegetable fats (margarine included) are themselves under attack for potentially causing heart disease, because of the trans fatty acids they contain. Studies found that trans fatty acids act more like saturated fat in raising blood cholesterol, and they may even lower the HDL or "good" cholesterol.

A commentary by Walter Willett, M.D., Ph.D., in the American Journal of Public Health in May called for federal regulations to greatly reduce or eliminate partially hydrogenated vegetable fats in the nation's food supply and to include trans fatty acids on the food label.

The estimation of 30,000 annual deaths from heart disease that Dr. Willett and his co-author suggested as the toll of trans fatty acids was based on epidemiological studies. Although not relied upon to prove that a disease is caused by a particular factor, epidemiological studies have gained importance by showing greater risks associated with certain factors, such as fat in the diet.

How do you make food choices now? The first point to remember is to eat less fat. Using butter instead of margarine is an option. One teaspoon of butter contributes 2.5 grams of saturated fat to the day's total. A healthy adult woman eating 2000 calories daily could eat 20 grams of saturated fat in a day and not exceed one-third of 30% calories from fat, the limit recommended by the American Heart Association for saturated fat intake. An active adult male eating 2500 calories could eat 25 grams and not exceed one-third of 30$ calories from fat. What one needs to remember is that the 2.5 grams from one teaspoon of butter are added to the saturated fat from meats, cheese, baked goods, and milk containing butterfat that are eaten in a day's time. Some health advocates think the fat amount you eat should be even lower. Look at the sample of a day'e menu to see how the food fats add up for lower fat meals.

Eating less of fat-containing foods and choosing fat-reduced or nonfat foods more often will help to cut down on the trans fatty acids and saturated fats that could cause harm. Using oil like olive oil, canola, peanut, or soybean oil instead of margarine or shortening will help to reduce the saturated fat, but they count as fats, and a diet low in total fat is important too. Eating bread and vegetables without butter or margarine and enjoying their natural flavors alone can be another alternative on the way to maintaining health. But when I bake an occasionnal cherry pie, I'll use butter.

Make It With Rice

There are many reasons to cook with rice. Dishes that include rice look elegant, taste delicious and are easy and inexpensive to prepare. One-half cup rice contains only 82 calories, is high in complex carbohydrates, and is cholesterol and sodium-free.

At only four cents per serving, rice will help you prepare economical dishes that are delicious and nutritious. Many of today's recipes come from the USA Rice Council.

The USA Rice Council has numerous recipe brochures that are free to those who send a self-addressed, stamped business-size envelope. These recipes are kitchen-tested and many have colored pictures of the prepared recipe. Some of the brochure titles include the following:

Basic Rice Recipes For Those With Allergies, Brown Rice, Light, Lean, Low-Fat Recipes, Walnuts and Rice, Everything's Better With Rice, Discover Rice Bran, Cooking With Rice, Micro-cooking With Rice, Seasonal Inspirations, Stretching Your Budget With Rice, Veg-able Rice, and the Many Nationalities of Rice.

If you are confused about the many different kinds of rice and the proper way to cook each kind, the Council also has descriptive information.

Hot and spicy or sweet and soothing, Thai cookery is becoming more and more familiar — and pleasing — to American palates.

These seasonings are ideal for chicken, according to the National Broiler Council, which developed the following recipe reflecting the flavors of Thailand cuisine.

Thai Stir Fry Chicken Ginger is quick, easy and delicious. Be sure to prepare all ingredients before beginning to cook. Colorful garnishes are a typical Thai touch.

The freshest of ingredients are always used by Thailand cooks. In the U.S., special canned and bottled Thai seasonings are becoming more readily available in the international section of supermarkets and in the proliferation of Oriental specialty stores.

THAI STIR FRY CHICKEN GINGER

1-1/2 pounds boneless, skinless chicken breasts, cut in 2-inch strips
1-1/2 cups low sodium chicken broth
3/4 cup coconut milk
5 ounces grated fresh ginger, divided
1 cup uncooked soft jasmine rice
2 cloves garlic, minced
3 tablespoons fish sauce
2 teaspoons sugar
1 teaspoon soy sauce
1 cup warm water
1/4 cup vegetable oil
1-1/2 cups yellow onion vertical strips
1/2 teaspoon white pepper

In saucepan, place broth, coconut milk and 1 teaspoon ginger. Add jasmine rice and bring to a boil over high temperature. Stir, reduce heat to low, cover and cook 20 minutes. Turn off heat and let sit 10 minutes without removing cover. While rice is cooking, in small bowl mix remaining ginger and minced garlic. In another bowl, mix together fish sauce, sugar and soy sauce; stir until sugar is dissolved. Add warm water and set aside. In large heavy frypan or wok, heat oil over medium high temperature. Add onion and stir fry until onion begins to change color and is slightly crisp, about 3 minutes. Remove with slotted spoon and keep warm. To pan, add ginger-garlic mixture and cook until light brown, about 2 minutes. Add chicken and stir fry until all pink is gone, about 5 minutes. Add fish sauce mixture and pepper; cook 3 minutes more. Serve over rice and top with onion. Garnish with red chili pepper "lilies" and green onion "brushes." Makes 6 servings.

Special Care Results In Special Friendship

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — When Dorothy Dennis broke her ankle, she was distressed at the thought of being hospitalized. Her husband, who has some physical problems, was not well enough to care for her.

But a service called Special Care had a solution. They sent a caregive to the Dennis home to help with personal care, fix meals, run errands and do light housekeeping.

While Mrs. Dennis was skeptical that a live-in housekeeper might make things a bit uncomfortable, she was pleasantly surprised.

"Chemistry happened between us. We sat and talked the day and night away," Mrs. Dennis said.

It's that chemistry between caregiver and client that Special Care strives to provide, said Scott Knoll, who directs the program.

Special care places highly screened and experienced caregivers with those who need help to remain independent.

"It's a low-cost alternative to the more expensive choice of nursing home care," Knoll said.

Care can be arranged from four to 24 hours per day and from one to seven days per week.

Services are also available in special circumstances such as a family vacation, respite care or an illness in the family.

Knoll said that Special Care was founded in 1982 by Jean Griswold, the wife of a Presbyterian minister. Griswold is confined to a wheelchair because of multiple sclerosis. The concept of Special Care evolved from a tragedy in her husband's congregation. An elderly widow died in her home from kidney failure after being unable to find someone to care for her at night.

Griswold compiled a list of people who would work as companions to the elderly. That first week, she received 20 calls for assistance. The demand resulted in the company opening 37 offices nationwide within the past 12 years. Unlike visiting nurse services that send licensed professionals who generally only stay a few hours, Special Care dispatches nurse's aides who aren't licensed but who take care of helping clients bathe, grocery shopping, meal preparation, and housekeeping duties.

According to Knoll, fees are generally $4 to $6 lower than most home care companies because the philosophy of Special Care is to proved high quality care at an affordable rate.

"It is often more desirable for an individual to receive care at home rather than being uprooted to an institutional setting," Knoll said. "Home-based service allows the client to control his or her own care. By living at home, the client has easier access to family, friends, community, and church."

Knoll said that the sevice follows up with care to make sure that the client feels comfortable with the caregiver. If not, they will replace the person.

For more information about Special Care services, call (717) 394-5111.

"Chemistry happens," said Mrs. Dennis of the live-in service that Rose Murphy provided. "We sat and talked the day and night away."

Attend The Organic Country Fair

PENNINGTON, N.J. — The fourth annual New Jersey Organic Country Fair will be held Saturday and Sunday, September 17 and 18, 1994, in Pennington, New Jersey, 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., rain or shine.

The second largest organic fair in the U.S., this Fair promises to be tremendously fun and educational for everyone — home gardeners, farmers, health conscious consumers, families with children and anyone interested in a great day in the country.

Fair highlights include Eliot Coleman, who will discuss the topic of his most recent book, Four-Season Harvest, on Saturday. On Sunday, Paul Shaw of Walnut Acres Organic Farms, will discuss key issues facing consumers on the 90s. Also on Sunday, Annemarie Colbin will discuss cooking for health and well being and Sr. Miriam McGillis will discuss the connection between healthy farms, food and communities.

Greeting fairgoers as they enter the Fair will be a farmers market featuring fruits and vegetables grown on local farms certified organic by the Northeast Organic Farming Association of New Jersey (NOFA-NJ).

Workshops held throughout the day include demonstrations on healthful cooking, goat-milking, pruning and worm-box composting; and seminars on such subjects as organic lawn care, edible landscaping, growing gourmet lettuce, herbal medicine and gardening for children.

Organic garden doctors will be on hand to diagnose garden problems. Farm/garden supplies such as potting soil, fertilizers, farm tools, composting equipment and pest control products will be available for sale.

Other special events include a country auction, a raffle, a horse-drawn wagon ride, and childrens' games. Of course, farm animals — sheep, llamas, and chickens — will be at the Fair for all to see and touch.

Throughout the weekend, guests will be entertained by musicians and strolling minstrels. Musical presentations include folk, jazz, Irish and New England fiddle. Peruvian music will be played on indigenous instruments from the Andes such as the churango, pan pipes, bomba and other percussion instruments. A contra dance will be held on Saturday, 3:30 to 5:00 p.m.

Craft demonstrations include, to name a few, broom making, furniture design and woodworking, and natural dying of yarn. Hand crafted items will also be available for purchase.

Among the many treats for the palate will be organic pasta, whole grain muffins, fresh salads, veggie lasagna, organic beef burgers, veggie pita pockets, organic coffee, herbal teas, shakes and more.

Gardeners/farmers interested in entering the vegetable contest can start growing now and bring their prize veggie to the Fair. Contest categories are: longest bean, longest winter squash, smallest pumpkin, largest tomato, funniest looking vegetable and best decorated vegetable.

Tickets are: adults $5; children 3 to 13 years, $3; and seniors over 65, $3. The Fair is sponsored by NOFA-NJ which promotes organic farming and gardening in New Jersey through certification, education, marketing and legislation. The Fair is to be held at the NOFA-NJ headquarters, 31 Titus Mill Road, Pennington, NJ 08534, which is also the location of the Stony Brook Millstone Watershed Association. For more information or to volunteer to help or participate (hundreds of volunteers, particularly groups, are needed), contact Betsy Rizza at (609) 737-6848.

Kid's Korner

Cassie Henderson, 3, shares something in common with Lancaster County Dairy Princess Amy Espenshade. Both love cows and are wearing "moo-vy" attire.

Good things come in pairs at the Elizabethtown Fair where sisters Amy, 8, and Stacy, 6, Haines show pairs of sheep. The two girls, daughters of Donna and Stanley Haines, live in Manheim where they raise about 20 Hampshires, Corriedales, and Karakuls. Appropriate for Fair fashions, the girls wore matching dresses, made by their mother, picturing chickens, sheep, and other barnyard animals.

New Farm Safety Book For Kids

EARLHAM, Iowa — Farm Safety 4 Just Kids introduces its newest educational resource, "Teaming Up. . .A Farm Safety Walkabout For Kids."

This spiral-bound workbook is filled with tips to identify and avoid farm hazards, discussion questions for an entire family or youth group, and creative activities to reinforce the valuable information presented. A complete Walkabout Checklist is also included for a team of kids and adults to identify and correct hazards on the farm.

"'Walkabout for Kids' was designed with the 10- or 11-yearold child in mind. Kids at this age need to learn more about safety as they play on the farm and before they actually begin working with farm machinery and livestock," said Shari Burgus, director of program services at Farm Safety 4 Just Kids. "The Walkabout encourages kids and their famililes or youth group leader to do the activities together," said Burgus.

The project was an outgrowth of the Farm Safety Walkabout developed by the University of Iowa. Funding was made possible by the Iowa Center for Agricultural Safety and Health and Pioncer HiBred International, Inc. - Business Information Services.

Copies of "Teaming Up. . .A Farm Safety Walkabout For Kids" cost $5 each and can be obtained from Farm Safety 4 Just Kids, PO Box 458, Earlham, IA .50072, (515) 758-2827.

Here are some activity pages from the book.

Apple Dumpling Festival

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — The 14th annual Apple Dumpling Festival will be held at 10:00 a.m on Saturday, October 8, in the Academy yard area at the Ephrata Cloister. Spend a few restful hours enjoying fresh apple dumplings, hot dogs, soup, coffee, and cider amid historic buildings and stately trees clothed in their autumn foliage. The Apple Dumpling Festival benefits the "Back to the Cloister Fund" which enables the Ephrata Cloister Associates to buy and preserve significant artifacts connected to Cloister history that are discovered in private collections and antique shops around the world.

Over the years this fund raiser has enabled the Associates to purchase letters written by Ephrata Cloister founder Conrad Beissel as well as its early spiritual leader Peter Miller. Beautifully illuminated music manuscripts, books, furniture, and significant early deeds and documents from the important William Y. Zerfass collection have immeasurably illuminated the history and improved the interpretation of the site.

Housed in a unique collection of medieval style buildings, the Ephrata Cloister was one of America's earliest communal societies where a community of religious celibates practiced an austere lifestyle that emphasized spiritual and mystical over materialistic values. Noted for its original music and calligraphy, the Ephrata Cloister was also an important colonial publishing center. The 10 original buildings that survive at Ephrata are reminders of the religious toleration that charaterized early Pennsylvania as well as the unusual lifestyle of those who inhabited the site during the eighteenth century.

The Ephrata Cloister Associates is a non-profit support group that raises funds to underwrite educational programs and return original objects to the Cloister.

Located at the junction of routes 322 and 272 in Ephrata, the Cloister will be open from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. on the day of the festival. Admission fees for those wishing to tour the buildings are: $5 adults, $4 seniors, $3 youth and under 6 are free. Admission to the Apple Dumpling Festival is free for all ages.

Jennifer Randall Reigns Over Somerset County Fair

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

MEYERSDALE (Somerset Co.) — Jennifer Randall had told the audience in the packed show arena about her background. She had explained why she wanted to be the 1994 fair queen. Like her three competitors, she had risen to the challenge of answering one all-important, surprise question.

And then, she and everybody else waited nervously for the judges' decision. In fact, it was so long in coming the master of ceremonies ran out of his brand of jokes, and called upon the 1993 fair queen, Vicki Stahl, to bail him out with her gift of public speaking.

Faced with choosing one winner from the four talented contestants, they saw and heard, naming Randall as the 1994 Somerset County Fair Queen was no easy task for the judges. They named Julie Will first runner-up.

Jean Black and Stephanie Singo were the other contestants. Because each of the four young women was excellent at public speaking, the decision was tough.

Randall, who is heading for Millersville University next week was elated to win $1,000 in scholarships as the new queen. They came with compliments from the Somerset Trust Company and First Philson Bank, each giving $500.

She's got a thirst for water, but not for drinking it. Randall says her educational pursuits may take her to a doctorate one day in marine biology. And while it seems a long way off, Randall can't wait to begin the journey.

"There have always been two things I wanted to get into," she said, "theatre arts and marine biology." Being the niece of a Maine lobsterman has merely courted her fascination for the ocean and marine life, especially since he takes her around the bays of his livelihood.

Besides school, Randall, who is 17 and the daughter of Charles and Kathryn Randall, Somerset, has a list of accomplishments a mile long in 4-H livestock projects. She will represent her county in January when the state fair queen pageant is held at Hershey.

Will, 17 and the daughter of John and Connie Will, Berlin, received a $250 scholarship from the Animal Medical Center operated by Dr. Bastian, Dr. Scott Bastian, Dr. Vincent Svonavec and Dr. Michael Nosko.

Black, 17 and Singo, 18, like the winners, received gold bracelets and gold lockets among their gifts.

Their parents are Doug and Peggy Black, Boswell, and Robert and Brenda Singo, Somerset.

The Somerset County Fair Board presented cash awards to the winners.

Jerry Lyons was master of ceremonies.

Mary Will and Wendy Will, Berlin, coordinated and directed the event which, in typical Somerset County fashion, dumped rain on the opening night of the 94th agricultural event.

However, wisdom prevailed early. Rather than consign visitors and honorees to a potential drenching, they chose to relocate the contest from the open grandstand to the show barn while droplets were only hinting at impending doom.

Hay Creek Festival Opens

MORGANTOWN (Chester Co.) — The Hay Creek Fall Festival which opens Friday, September 9 and runs through Sunday, September 11, will celebrate its 18th year of interpreting life on Historic Joanna Furnace.

The event, held on the 26 acre Joanna Furnace site near Morgantown, showcases the 18th and 19 century iron making life style through music, early American crafts demonstrations and sales, early steam and gas technology, historic interpretation and plenty of good food.

More than 200 juried craftsmen will demonstrate early American skills such as basket making, shoe making, coopering, furniture making and spinning and weaving. They will also sell their wares.

Three times on Saturday and Sunday, visitors can see how sheep are sheared and the resulting wool is fashioned into a finished product.

Other ctafts include a resident blacksmith in the restored blacksmith shop, this year working with pewter, bronze and iron, glass blowing, broom making, Windsor chair makers, painted chests and fireboards, and numerous others.

The history of Joanna Furnace is told through a twelve-minute video shown continuously throughout the day. Visitors are able to take a self-guided walking tour of the historic complex and learn first hand how Joanna made iron from 1792 to 1897.

For children there are a number of hands-on activities, story telling and farm animals.

The food ranges from an all-you-can-eat sausage and pancake breakfast Saturday and Sunday to home baked bread to open fire cooked apple butter to shoofly pies to chicken pot pie to open fire cooked soups to contemporary foods.

In the steam and gas technology section visitors can see hundreds of early gasoline engines operating all kinds of machinery from water pumps to corn shellers. Steam engines will be operating heavy machinery including the Hay Creek sawmill and a shingle mill. The Hay Creek sawmill is a full-size operating sawmill used to cut beams and planks from large logs. The lumber cut here is used in the restoration and building programs at Joanna Furnace.

The Festival is open Friday 10:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. and Saturday/Sunday from 7:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. Main Festival events run from 10:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m.

Adult admission is $3 on Friday (Preview day) and $5 Saturday and Sunday. Children 12 and under are free at all times. Parking is free on paved lot at New Morgan two miles south of Festival grounds on PA Route 10. Free shuttle buses run continuously from parking lot to Festival grounds.

The Hay Creek Fall Festival is sponsored by the Hay Creek Valley Historical Association, a non-profit organization.

Proceeds go toward the research, maintenance and restoration programs of Historic Joanna Furnace through the Hay Creek Valley Historical Association.

Fair Days And Somerset County Dairy Maids

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

MEYERSDALE (Somerset Co.) — Somerset County dairy maids Michele Shaffer and Gretchen Fox lost no time promoting wholesome dairy products when the Somerset County Fair opened on August 21.

Armed with the tools of their trade, so to speak — rubber magnets, rubber cows, red-heart stickers that told the world "I love milk," and more, they used the persuasive powers of refreshing milk punch on all passers-by.

And what good does it do if you like the punch and don't know how to make it? It does no good. So stacks of milk punch recipe cards disappeared at about the same rate as the cups of dairy drink shaffer and Fox were passing out.

They were assisting Somerset County dairy princess, Natalie Welch and first alternate, Kelly Bittner. Barbara Brant of the Somerset County Dairy Promotion Committee was the background force, mixing the milk, fruit-flavored sherbet and carbonated drink. She was great for mopping up the inevitable messes, too.

And a cow was spotted hanging out in the royal company but, alias, she walked on two legs. Somebody saw her take off her head and thereafter, they called her Jessica Lynch. Then she stuck it back on — her head, that is.

"Look mom, there's a cow," was repeated by kids on the midway like a broken record spinning on a turntable. It proved the mascot's value in garnering attention for dairy products.

Shaffer and Fox were first introduced at the county dairy princess contest last June in Somerset. This is the second year the promotion committee has named dairy maids. Erica Walker served as the first in 1993.

Although both dairy maids have Berlin addresses, they attend the Shanksville-Stoneycreek High School. They have assisted withi promotions at the Greorgian Place Outlet Mall in Somerset, and served sundaes at area businesses, in order to score points for Welch.

"It's interesting," said Shaffer, "you get to meet a lot of people." She says the experience will help her to decide later whether to compete for the dairy princess title.

The 10th-grade daughter of Lee and Jean Shaffer, she loves sports such as volleyball and basketball. She's in 4-H, member of SADD and the student senate at her school. The majorette is also in chorus and belongs to Rainbow Girls.

Fox, 14, says she has no doubt that when eligible, she willenter the dairy princess contest if for no other reason than, "My grandma will make me." Oops, that's Barbara Brant.

Dairy has always played largely in Fox's life. She was a little maid when that program first began.

On the family farm, operated by her parents Brad and Melissa Fox, the ninth grader says she is her dad's primary assistant for the evening milking. Right now the Holstein herd numbers 44 head, she said.

Fox actively participates in 4-H with clothing and animal projects. She has two younger sisters and a brother.

Although she has dairy cows, Fox says she's only showing lambs at this year's fair.

Consuming Thoughts

Fay Strickler

Penn State Extension Home Economist For Berks Co.

Creatuve cooks and chefs recognize that both fresh and home-dried herbs can be of higher quality than those purchased commercially and the flavor and fragrance of home-grown herbs can last all year if the plants are carefully harvested and stored.

You probably have already been harvesting most leafy herbs during this growing season, and left enough of the plant to ensure further growth. Basil, mint, marjoram, rosemary, thyme, and most others can be harvested in small amounts for immediate use by cutting the ends of stems. This type of clipping encourages branching, and will produce bushier plants. Chives, chervil, and parsley are exceptions, and should be cut off near the base of the stem rather than from the top.

The best time for gathering herbs is mid-morning on a sunny day; after the dew has dried, but before their essential oils have dissipated. After you cut the herbs, rinse them in lukewarm to cool water and pat dry with a towel. To keep the herbs fresh for use later in the day, place stems down in a glass of water.

It is especially important to harvest herbs for drying or freezing when their oils are at maximum concentration. Leafy herbs are ready when the flower buds begin to open; seeds when they change from green to brown; and herb flowers when fully opened. Leafy herbs should be cut halfway down the stem, allowing for a second growth. At the end of the season, annuals can be cut to the ground, but some foliage should be left on perennial herbs.

After rinsing and patting dry, the herbs, if they are long-stemmed, can be tied in small bunches, labeled, and hung upside down in a well-ventilated location—an enclosed porch or a spare room.

Flowers, seed heads, and herbs with short stems should be dried on a drying rack. A window screen propped between two chairs will work, or a simple rack can be built of 1x2's and cheesecloth or screen. The herbs should be spread in a single layer, and turned each day, so they will dry completely.

It will take about two weeks for the herbs to dry depending on the weather. Foliage should be crisp before stripping from stems. Seeds enclosed in capsules should be removed and dried for an additional 7 to 10 days. It is possible to shorten the process to one day by drying the herbs in s dehydrator or in the oven. The essential oils will be destroyed and the herbs ruined if they are dried at a high temperature.

Dried herbs should be stored in a cool, dry place where they are not exposed to direct sunlight. Ceramic, opaque glass, or metal containers are best for herb storage; paper and cardboard will absorb the oils. If clear glass jars are used they should be kept out of the sun to avoid bleaching of the herbs.

Soon after the dried herbs are bottled, they should be checked to see if moisture has condensed inside the containers. If this happens, the herbs should be removed immediately and allowed to dry for a few days longer.

Many herbs — among them marjoram, chives, parsley, and tarragon — can be successfully frozen. Herbs to be preserved in this way should be rinsed and dried, but need not be blanched, before they are placed in labeled plastic bags or boxes for freezing. Each herb may be frozen separately, or they may be combined in often used mixtures. By harvesting herbs now, you'll enjoy top quality home-grown herbs throughout the year.

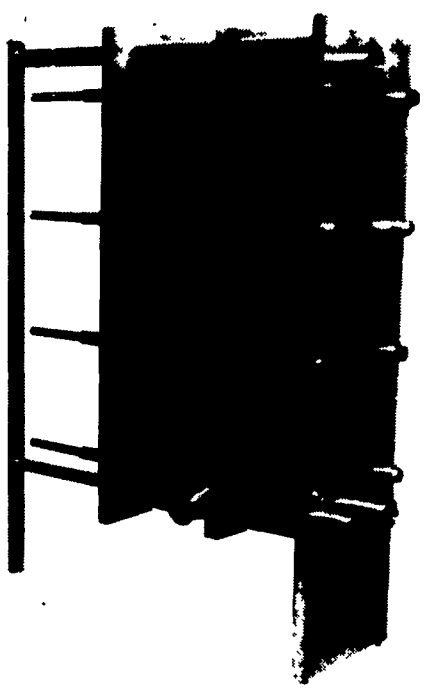
Cool is more than just a state of mind...

...It means quality milk.



Being cool is more than just an attitude or a state of mind. It's a necessity, especially when it comes to quality milk. The Surge Plate Kooler redefines cool. By using well water alone or combined with ice water, the Plate Kooler provides instant milk cooling.

Features and Benefits:

- ❑ Quick cooling reduces the risk of bacteria growth, resulting in higher qualitv milk and higher profits
- ❑ Pre-cooled milk means the milk tanks use less horsepower to cool milk, reducing energy costs.

Adding a Kool Way Chiller to your pre- cooling system increases your benefits by:

- ❑ Using 20 to 30 percent less horsepower to lower milk temperature to as low as 36° F, further lowering energy costs.
- ❑ Virtually eliminating tank cooling by using chilled water, instantly lowering milk's temperature to storage temperat

The Plate Kooler is individually sized. The "one size fits all" philosophy is no longer cool.

4-H'ers, Leaders Talk About Their Work In Poland

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — With time and patience, the people of Poland will have the 4-H leaders they need to continue to make 4-H work in their country, according to Connie Rutt, Quarryville, a volunteer 4-H club leader.

Recently, a Lancaster County 4-H delegation returned from a three-week exchange trip to the Leszno area of west central Poland. The group, consisting of 4-H'ers and leaders, spoke about the trip on Tuesday at the Farm and Home Center during a news conference.

What the 4-H leaders and ambassadors found is that, for a people struggling with democracy, the seed has been sown for 4-H to grow.

Rutt and Lancaster County extension agent Glenn Shirk, with Glenn's wife Carol Lee, accompanied Kim McLaughlin, 4-H'er from Quarryville and Eric Wenger, 4-H'er from Manheim, on the exchange trip. Shirk said that the trip was part of an ongoing program to provide international experience and cultural exchange for 4-H'ers.

Rutt said that the 4-H program was set up there about three years ago by the Michigan 4-H. Several programs were put in place in Poland by various Pennsylvania 4-H groups since.

Shirk said that the group visited Leszno, an area in west central Poland. The area is similar to that of the midwestern U.S. Shirk said he was pleased with the visit and found the Polish people very hospitable.

Eric Wenger, 18, son of Nelson and Alma Wenger, Manheim, said that he stayed with a family that maintained a hog farm, which totaled about 180 hectares (about 450 acres). At the time, he was helping two Polish brothers, aged 16 and 17, and a sister, age 5, helped with the straw harvest. They all were very kind to Eric and introduced him to the Polish way of life.

At the same time, the family was extremely interested in things American.

"They were very interested in America, especially Hollywood and music," said Eric. He said they had some very good American music at their "discos," but he also experienced some traditional Polish entertainment and food. Eric said he was impressed by the the Polish cities, by "how beautiful and clean and safe they are." Always, the Polish people were "very generous and respectful."

Many of the Polish students study different languages, particularly German, English, and Russian. The younger people understand more English, since traditionally Russian was the more common second language until the fall of communism. Rutt said that the Polish-English translation book "came in handy all the time" for the group.

Eric, a Penn State 4-H ambassador and Manheim Central High School senior, said the Poland 4-H'ers had some public speaking experience, but never tried impromptu speaking. "That was a first for nearly everyone," he said.

Rutt said that many of the 4-H'ers and Polish families have the perception that all American 4-H'ers have vacation homes in Florida. She had to explain that Florida would have to be a big place to accommodate everyone with homes.

Rutt said that the group ate various traditional Polish foods and cabbage "in every form possible."

Kim McLaughlin, 16, daughter of Ralph and Vonnie McLaughlin, Quarryville, visited a Polish horse farm. She took horse riding lessons, something she had never done. "To me, it was an adventure," she said.

"They were very, very generous to me," said Kim. "They made sure I felt at home." She said he felt very close to the family "and it was hard to say goodbye."

Kim said she was impressed with their efforts after World War II and the fall of communism to restore the architecture to its original design. She equated her trip with a voyage "into history" and liked to imagine what the place was like when it was first built. "American is a fairly new country. We have nothing old like they do there."

Kim, a junior at Solanco, said the people of Poland "are the nicest people that I have ever met."

Rutt, 4-H leader, said this is her third trip to Poland. "The Polish people are very excited about the future, about the youth and the possibilities." Now, if only the Polish people can make time away from the constant struggle to "get a job, hold a job," said Rutt, and devote precious energies, 4-H clubs in Poland can grow and prosper.

Even though Poland is struggling with democracy, the seed has been sown for 4-H to grow. Connie Rutt, far right and Lancaster County extension agent Glenn Shirk, far left, accompanied Kim McLaughlin, 4-H'er from Quarryville, second from left and Eric Wenger, 4-H'er from Manheim, on the exchange trip. On the table are gifts from the Polish host families. Shirk said that the trip was part of an ongoing program to provide international experience and cultural exchange for 4-H'ers.

Food Safety Applies To Backyard Grilling

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — You've made it through the entire summer barbecue season without incident. Congratulations. There's still Labor Day, however, and a Penn State food safety expert counsels caution when grilling up a feast for friends and relatives.

"Illnesses from undercooked foods and improper food handling skyrocket during barbecue season," says Stephen Knabel, assistant professor of food science in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

Such food-borne illnesses as campylobacteriosis, giardiasis, salmonellosis and shigellosis strike most frequently during the summer season — particularly in children under 4 years old.

Symptoms of such illnesses include stomach pain, nausea, vomiting, diarrhea, headaches and fever. Healthy adults often weather the sicknesses in a day or two. However, young children, senior citizens, pregnant women, and people with impaired immune systems can die if not treated immediately.

Knabel suggests a few simple guidelines to make sure your holiday weekend doesn't include a trip to the emergency room.

—Keep hot foods hot and cold foods cold. "Leave meats and other food in the refrigerator or cooler until you are ready to grill them," Knabel says.

—Cook hamburgers and other ground meat until the center is no longer pink and the juices run clear.

—Marinate raw fish, meat or poultry in a glass dish in the refrigerator. Do not use the marinade as a basting sauce or dip if raw meat has been placed in it.

—Pre-cooking meat in the microwave or range is a time-saver, but make sure the meat goes directly from the oven or microwave onto the grill. Do not let partially cooked meat sit out on the counter.

—Charcoal should burn for 30 minutes before cooking. The coals should have a light ash coating for best results.

—Always make an exploratory cut into meats to check doneless.

—Use a meat therometer for large cuts of meat. Roasts should reach 145 degrees Fahrenheit for medium rare and 160 degrees F for medium. Whole poultry should reach 180 degrees.

—Do not put cooked food on plates that have held raw meat. "Any containers, cutting boards or utensils used to prepare raw meat for the grill should be washed before being used again. Also, wash your hands in soapy water before and after handling meat," Knabel said.

York Society 11

The August meeting was held at the Lions Pride Restaurant at Red Lioin with Alene Carman as hostess. Arlene Miller and Helen Rexrath were program co-chairpersons. The theme for the day was Safety and Roll Call was answered by a Safety hint. There were 16 members and 4 guests present to enjoy our luncheon.

The Ways & Means Committee announced a "Goody" Auction for the September meeting. Baked goods, vegetables and fruits or crafts can be brought and will all be auctioned to the highest bidder.

The results of the County Fair at the 4-H Center were given. Guess Box was won by Sandy Hilty. Michelle Miller, an 11-year-old member of the York Co. 4-H Lamb Club, talked to us about her project and showed a video on her lambs and judging at the York Fair last year. She shows Hampshire lambs and talked about exercising and grooming as aids to achieving a blue ribbon.

The next meeting will be held on September 20 at the home of Mary Carman.

Berks Society 1

The members of Berks County Society of Farm Women Group 1, along with their guests, enjoyed their annual picnic at Levengood's Grove, Douglassville on August 21.

Plans for the picnic were completed previously at the August meeting of the group which was held at the Oley home of Grace Schaeffer. The meeting was attended by sixteen members. At that meeting Carrie Hetrick gave a most interesting account of her experience as an exchange student to Germany from which she recently returned. She is a granddaughter of member Lillian Hetrick.

The September meeting of Group 1 will be held at the home of Martha Levan, Oley, on September 14, at 7:30 P.M.

Yellowjacket Plague Strikes Nation

SPRING MILLS (Centre Co.) — Experts are predicting yellowjacket populations will reach epidemic proportions this fall in many parts of the U.S. due in part to favorable weather conditions earlier this summer. Many hospital emergency departments are already reporting record numbers of bee sting patients as the insects begin to take their toll.

"Yellowjacket populations are cyclical. Every few years when weather conditions and food supplies are favorable, nest populations explode," according to Miles Guralnick, entomologist at Vespa Labs, Inc. and expert on North American yellowjacket biology. Guralnik adds that "by the time their numbers have peaked, food supplies are dwindling, forcing them to forage at picnics and garbage areas. This is where most stings occur."

To protect yourself against this threat, avoid open refuse areas and keep all food covered when eating outdoors. Have problem nests destroyed by a professional exterminator and never swat at flying yellowjackets as frantic motion incites their attack behavior.

For more information on treating allergic reactions to yellowjacket stings, call 1-800-23-STING.

Ciba Seeds Files For r-DNA Corn

GREENSBORO, N.C. — Ciba Seeds (a division of Ciba-Geigy Corporation) has submitted to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) an application for registration of corn genetically engineered for control of insect pests.

Ciba Seeds becomes the first company to seek full federal approval of a staple grain crop that is produced through DNA technology. The only genetically engineered crop currently available commercially is Calgene's FLAVR SAVR® tomato which was only recently approved by the US Food and Drug Administration (FDA).

EPA acts as the lead federal regulatory authority for crops genetically engineered for protection against pests. Ciba Seeds will also seek formal clearance from the US Department of Agriculture (USDA) as well as file a premarket notification to the FDA in compliance with each agency's regulations and guidelines.

Ciba Seeds' insect protected corn produces a protein derived from the naturally occurring soil bacterium, Bacillus thuringiensis, commonly referred to as "Bt," which has been widely recognized for its safe use as a registered biological pesticide since 1961. Corn plants producing the Bt insect control protein (referred to as "Bt corn") are protected from insect pests such as the European corn borer (ECB), a major pest that can cause significant yield loss and is both expensive and difficult to control with conventional insecticides.

Ciba Seeds' request for EPA registration is the result of a stepwise development plan to provide cost-effective, insect-protected hybrid corn seed that reduces farmer production risks and costs. Following extensive greenhouse evaluations, Ciba Seeds conducted small-scale field tests under permits granted by the USDA and began larger scale field trials in 1993 under an EPA experimental use permit. Ciba Seeds International has also conducted trials in a number of countries throughout the world.

Ciba Seeds' Bt corn provides unprecedented efficiency in protection of the corn plant from the target pest. Each corn plant produces very small quantities of its own insect control protein, most of which is localized in corn leaves and pollen where it is needed for control of ECB. Other plant parts, including kernels, have only trace amounts of the insect control protein. As a result, this unique method of pest control may significantly reduce the use of insecticides to control the target pest. In Ciba Seeds' field trials, Bt corn plants achieved higher yields due to control of low-level pest infestations that would be uneconomical to control through conventional means.

The European corn borer can cause yield losses of up to 30-percent with average losses of 8-percent being reported in a recent survey of farmers in Iowa and Minnesota. A yield loss of 8-percent on Iowa's 12 million acres of corn alone would mean a potential loss of nearly $300 million per year. In limited field trials conducted in 1992 and 1993, Ciba Seeds' Bt corn achieved an average yield gain of 35-percent under conditions of heavy infestation as compared to corn lines lacking the Bt gene. Bt corn has the potential to replace about 3.1 million application-acre treatments of conventional insecticides in the US each year with resulting benefits to farmers and consumers.

"You Ask — You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask — You Answer, Lou Ann Good, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522.

QUESTION — Stanley Siedlecki, Jarrettsville, Md., writes that his woodburning stove emits a strong wood burning smell during humid days and nights. The flue has been cleaned. Is there something that can be done to prevent this odor or condition?

QUESTION — Peg Koser, Lancaster, asks how to remove odors such as cantaloupe, onions, and cucumbers from plastic containers.

QUESTION — C. Van Horn, Mt. Pleasant Mills, would like to know what works and is safe to remove yellow and grease stains from old china dishes, especially ironstone. She would like something that makes the dishes white again.

QUESTION — E. JOHN DEERE MAXIMIZER™ COMBINES

Put better-quality grain in the bin

Better grain quality begins with a Maximizer Combine's extra-wide, extra-long feeder house. It delivers a thin, uniform crop mat ... cuts down on slug feeding and grain damage.

The big, 26-inch, slow-turning cylinder threshes grain immediately as it enters the cylinder/concave area. The long-wrap concave provides quick separation, so there's less chance for repeated rasp bar impact ... more opportunity for whole, undamaged grain.

Your grain quality gets even better with the exclusive Quadra-Flo™ cleaning system. It features a unique precleaner and four high-velocity fans for efficient cleaning and super-clean samples.

And for a better corn harvest, the John Deere 90 Series Corn Head, with exclusive Perma-Glide™ shields, gives you smoother feeding, faster harvesting speeds, less ear loss, and easier maintenance. Check out all-new knife stalk rolls, too.

Ask your John Deere dealer for a Maximizer demonstration.

Bradford Dairy 4-H

Years of practice paid off for six 4-H dairy members from Bradford County as they completed a successful year of dairy judging competition at the Pennsylvania State 4-H Days Dairy Judging Contest held recently at Penn State.

The senior 4-H dairy judging team was first in the state in oral reasons and fifth in the overall competition. The team consisted of Ellen Keeney of Wyalusing, Amy Packard of troy, and Michael Wright of Canton. Amy Packard was high individual in the oral reasons contest and sixth overall. She will be competing, as a member of the Pennsylvania team, in the North American International Livestock Exposition in Louisville, Kentucky in November. Michael Wright was also third high individual in the oral reasons competition.

In the junior 4-H dairy judging competition, Bradford County was second in oral reasons and also second team overall. Team members were Jamie Alderfer of Athens, Bryan Champluvier of Wyalusing, and David Packard of Troy. Bryan Champluvier was high individual in the oral reasons contest and seventh overall. David Packard was third in oral reasons and fourth individual overall. Jamie Alderfer was tenth overall.

The Bradford County 4-H Dairy Bowl team also competed at State 4-H Days. Team members were Jeff Wilbur and Robin Wilson of Rome, and Julie Chaffee of Apalachin, N.Y. Their coach was Katherine Lunde of Apalachin.

Team members and coaches should be commended for their dedication to the 4-H dairy program. Dairy judging team coaches are Dan Alderfer, Sandy Crawford, and Tom Wright. Special thanks to Mark Carter, Bill Curley, and Terri Packard for presenting additional workshops for those involved in the dairy judging program.

plain whereas the pine tree was decorated with tinsel and glitter. The apple tree complained to God and God said to the apple tree that he would give the tree a special gift. Betsy doesn't remember the remainder of the story, but God ended up putting a Christmas star in the heart of each apple. If you cut an apple crosswise, you will find a perfectly shaped five-point star in the heart of the apple. Betsy would like to have the complete story of how the star came to appear in the center of the apple.

QUESTION — Shirley Baer, New Freedom, would like handmade aluminum made during the late 1930s and 1940s, especially those with designs of animals, flowers, and fowl.

ANSWER — Charles E. Wright, Duncannon, wanted to know if the Gray Iron Casting Co., Mt. Joy, is still in business. Scott Alleman, Lititz, writes that it is not in business. His father worked there in the early '60s when the plant closed. The company made small items such as the stove Wright mentioned in his letter, banks, door stops, boot cleaners and removers that mounted on porches, walt shelves, door knockers, and pot holders. Perhaps the company's most famous product was the flying eagles that people hung above their doors.

ANSWER — For the reader who wanted to know how to clean soot from painted dry wall, Ben L. Stoltzfus, Mechanicsville, Md., writes that he has products that work when most other cleaners fail. For more information, write to him at 5395 James Rd., Mechanicsville, Md. 20659. Miriam DeLong, Quarryville, writes that she used Fuller washing compounds and it gave good results on her painted plaster walls.

Thurmont And Emmittsburg Community Show

This year marks the 38th anniversary of the Thurmont and Emmitsburg Community Show, scheduled for Friday, Saturday and Sunday, September 9-11 at Catoctin High School in Thurmont, Md.

More than 2,500 farm and garden, household, quilt, livestock, machinery, and commercial displays can be seen during the three-day event.

Each year, the community show honors an organization for its contributions to community life. This year, the show will be celebrating the 25th anniversary of Catoctin High School faculty.

The show opens Friday, September 9, at 6 p.m. to the public. At 7:30 p.m., the program will open in the auditorium with the massing of flags by community civic organizations. Ralph Fisher will sing several songs during the program.

The highlight of the program will be the announcement of the 1994-1995 Catoctin FFA ambassador.

Wool, Mohair Support Levels Set

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — The support price for 1994 shorn wool marketings is $2.09 per pound, five cents per pound more than the 1993 level, according to Richard Troutman, chairman of the Berks County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS).

Mohair marketings will be supported at $4.739 per pound, slightly higher than the 1993 rate.

Troutman said price support payments are computed as a percentage of each producer's returns from grease basis sales. The percentage is the amount required to raise the 1994 national average price for wool uup to the $2.09 per pound support price.

Troutman said mohair will be supported at 85 percent of the percentage of parity at which shorn wool is being supported. The mohair payment rate will be determined in a manner similar to shorn wool.

In accordance with farm legislation, the two-year phaseout of the wool and mohair programs begins with the 1994 marketing year. "Payments for 1994 will be calculated using the support prices announced, but producers will receive only 75 percent of the calculated payment," he said.

Price support payments for 1993 wool and mohair marketings totaled $9,128 according to Troutman. The payments went to 66 sheep and goat raisers in the county.

ASCS official Troutman said pulled wool will continue to be supported at a level comparable to the price support level for shorn wool through payments on unshorn lambs.

Low Horsepower Paratill From Tye

LOCKNEY, Texas — Tye has introduced a three-leg paratill to match the reduced tractor horsepower available on many no-till and conservation oriented farms. The three leg models are compatible with low horsepower older tractors and smaller farming operations.

The new Paratills are equipped with Tye's unique field-proven angled leg to give one-pass soil loosening and compaction breakup. Adjustable leg spacings let the operator set the paratill to fit his row widths and cover large acreages.

Paratill offers the operator all of the soil loosening capabilities needed to shatter yield robbing compaction in a single pass, without forming clods.

Tye has introduced a three-leg Paratill to match the reduced tractor horsepower available on many no-till and conservation oriented farms.

CDR Releases DairyView V. 1.20

Ithaca, N.Y. — If you are looking for one personal computer (PC) software product to analyze dairy production information, DairyView is a must see.

Available through Cornell Dairy Records, Dairy View software can display and print reports and graphs of dairy production data. Dairy producers, vets, and consultants can use this information for herd management.

A new module, "Reproduction - Conception Analysis," is designed to evaluate the reproduction performance of a herd using the most advanced techniques available. The analysis can be thought of as a "bred date model." This idea is similar in theory to Cornell's Test-Day Model (TDM).

The TDM is a patented, statistical method used to analyze dairy production information. In the TDM, factors are calculated for individual herds, to account for all known variables, using every piece of data available. What is left over, when all the known variables are accounted for, is the management level of the herd or TDM Management Milk.

With the Bred Date Model each bred date is also treated as an observation in the model. The answers (or solutions) show your strengths and areas of opportunity in your reproductive program.

Four traits that can be analyzed in the Reproduction - Conception analysis module are 1) services per conception, 2) conception rate, 3) days to first service, and 4) days open. You simply choose the trait to be analyzed and describe the management factors to be considered in the model (lactation number, date bred, service number, and service sire). DairyView does the rest.

This flexibility allows you to answer different kinds of questions. For example, if you want to know whether services per conception is higher in the summer months, you could define the "month bred" as a factor. On the other hand, if you want to know if days to first service increased while you were on vacation last October, you define the "month-year bred" instead.

The Reproduction - Conception Analysis module of DairyView is one of many modules in DairyView. Eleven others are included TDM Management Milk Summary, Individual Cow Page, Sire Viewing, Portfolio Theory-Semen Purchases, Individual Calf Data, Cow and Calf Report Generator, Cow Graph Generator, Cow Graphing - Test-Day Data, Genealogy and the Culling and Income Forecasts.

Other features of Version 1.20 include new graphing options and a new graph printing mechanism that producers high quality, high resolution graphs on all types of printers. There are many additional features and enhancements in the new version of 1.20. For more information about DairyView, contact Cornell Dairy Records at (800) 872-3775.

Frey Receives Award Of Excellence

NEWARK, Del. — In teaching, seeing is often believing, especially when it comes to garden ornaments. Dr. David Frey, associate professor of horticulture at the University of Delaware, developed a set of 70 instructional slides to show his students the best and worst uses of ornaments in the garden.

The set of slides, "Garden Ornaments: Examples, Design Consideration and Garden Use," proved worthy of a 1994 Media Award of Excellence from the National Association of Colleges and Teachers of Agriculture. The award was the only honor given in a class that included slides, computer software, videotapes, 16mm films, transparencies, audio cassettes or tapes, film strips and models.

Frey, who took all of the slides himself, finished writing the text last year with co-author Constance Lydon, a former faculty member who is now a landscape designer. Intended for an introductory college-level course, the set includes images from as far away as the Vatican and as close as Longwood Gardens in Kennett Square, Pa.

"The slide set lets students see the diversity of garden ornaments and how they are best incorporated into the landscape," says Frey, who has already used the set in teaching two of his ornamental horticulture courses at the College of Agricultural Sciences.

EPA Finalizes ROR

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — National Corn Growers Association (NCGA) president and Essex, Iowa farmer Pete Wenstrand commended the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) for a "job well done" in finalizing the regulations for the Renewable Oxygenate Requirement (ROR).

"The ROR exemplifies the dedication of the Clinton Administration to expand the use of renewable forms of energy, like ethanol," said Wenstrand.

The announcement by the EPA culminates a year long, highly contested struggle by the EPA to require that 30 percent of the oxygen required in the reformulated gasoline program (RFG) be derived from renewable sources. In a presentation to the Governors Ethanol Coalition in Milwaukee, EPA Air and Radiation Administrator Mary Nichols said, "The ROR is just the beginning of a long process to expand the use of renewable fuels. This administration is fully committed to the ROR program and this is just the first step in reaching our long term objectives."

"NCGA," said Wenstrand, "is tremendously excited about the future prospects this program holds for agriculture. The ROR will create additional demand for corn by as much as 100-200 million bushels in 1995-96 and even more in the out years of the program. This is a longterm commitment by the Clinton administration and will have a profound impact on the future of the ethanol industry. Our focus has always been to ensure the viability of the ROR and therefore we have endorsed a one year phase-in of the 30 percent rule, in order to maximize its opportunities for success."

Members of the NCGA and other farm groups have sent in hundreds of letters to the President and more than 15,000 seed tags containing messages expressing their support of the ROR. Wenstrand said, "The message from agriculture was heard loud and clear in Washington. These efforts, by thousands of corn farmers, served to offset the negative messages being sent to the President by the oil industry. Without this significant 'grassroots' initiative, we may well have lost to the powerful oil lobby."

Gor-Wood-D Holsteins Champs At Tioga Fair Show

C.J. Houghtaling
Tioga Co. Correspondent

WHITNEYVILLE (Tioga Co.) — Four years separated the Grand Champion from the Reserve Grand Champion in the Black and White Division of the Open Dairy Show at the Tioga County Fair. While the younger one took top honors, both cows were from the Gor-Wood-D registered Holstein line.

According to Judge Lloyd Ebersole of Tunkhannock, Gor-Wood-D Star-B Splendor, a four year old owned by Heather Wood of Mansfield, had an advantage in height and width of udder, and she had more bloom about her than the eight year old, Gor-Wood-D Jet Rona, owned by Gor-Wood-D Holsteins, also of Mansfield. Splendor earned her right to compete for the champion division by placing first in the Four Year Old category. Although she was not quite as tall as the second place competition in the Four Year Old class, Splendor had more depth of rib.

Rona garnered her blue ribbon in the Lifetime Production (100,000 pound) category. Ebersole noted Rona had an advantage in strength of udder and a correctness in legs over the number two cow in that class, although the second place winner carried her udder better.

Grand Champion Splendor was sired by Hanoverhill Starbuck with the dam Gor-Wood-D Sexy Sally. Reserve Grand Champion Rona's sire and dam were Bridon-Astro Jet-ET and Gor-Wood-D Bootmaker Rhonda. Both cows were bred by Gordon and Dorothy Wood of Mansfield.

Other first place victories for the Gordon Wood family included Junior Two Year Old, Six Year Old, Holstein Get of Sire, Holstein Dairy Herd, Holstein Best Three Senior Females, and Holstein Dam and Daughter classes, all of which helped with Gor-Wood-D Holsteins the Premier Breeder and Premier Exhibitor awards as well.

Corn, Forage Grass Variety Trial At Field Day

MILLERSBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Like to see Blue Corn, Dwarf Corn, Lancaster Sure Crop, Bloody Butcher Corn? How about 96 different corn hybrids from Pioneer, Agway, Doeblers, Eastland, Cargill and others, all in one location?

How about viewing 10 acres of 10 different cool season grasses, including Matua Bromegrass, Palaton Reed Canarygrass, Dawn Orchardgrass, in one location as well?

Then plan to visit these variety trials on Thursday, September 8, at Alka Farms, Route 25 in Upper Dauphin County. Alka Farms is located between Millersburg and Berrysburg on Route 25. For additional directions, call (717) 921-8803.

Beginning at 1 p.m., Dr. Marvin Hall will discuss growth characteristics and selection of cool season grasses. There is a 10-acre field with 10 varieties of cool season grasses to observe and compare.

At 2 p.m. the tour will travel one half mile east on Route 25 to a corn hybrid variety trial planted by corn breeders from Penn State. Dr. Greg Roth will lead a discussion on corn hybrid selection. At this location are more than 95 different corn hybrids to observe.

Following the formal presentations there will be opportunity for general duscussion on the growing season of 1994 and other questions.

For additional information and a map, contact the Dauphin County Cooperative Extension Office at (717) 921-8803.

BARN CLEANERS

Built to clean faster... built to last longer!

All-forged Hook-Link® chain... available on Super 300 and Super 500 barn cleaners

Extra thick steel at all wear points

IMPORTANT: Look for the "parting line" on any barn cleaner chain you buy. It shows where excess metal has been trimmed off. It is your assurance that the link was totally forged, not just punched out of a flat steel bar with grain flow in one direction only.
You want a totally-forged link because forging changes the grain on the steel, causing it to curve in unbroken flow lines around the contours of the link, giving the link greater strength to serve you longer.

TOWER SILOS:
HIGH PROFIT STORAGE FOR HIGH ENERGY FEEDS

Preserving high energy corn silage is obtained only through efficient, effective storage. Storage that saves the most nutrients. Storage that delivers the highest overall long term benefits. Storage that offers better total performance than any other method of preserving valuable corn silage.

Tower silos control the fermentation process and retain the most feed. With tower silos you'll get better feed...more feed...with lower overall costs and less labor than any other storage method.

"When it comes to high profit storage for high energy feeds, other systems just don't measure up."

CONSIDER THE MANY CONCRETE ADVANTAGES!
"A GOOD JULY RAIN GROWS A LOT OF GRAIN!"
With The Prospect Of A Good Corn Crop, It's Time For Many Producers To Make Decisions Concerning Storage.

No Used Silos!
No Rebuilt Silos!
No Preowned Silos!!

In order to avoid hauling and drying costs, let us build a corn storage unit to preserve your valuable grain at 20%-30% moisture.

To keep your stored corn bright and yellow, you must protect it from oxygen and heat. Our 6" thick concrete walls reflect 38% of light beams, resulting in 780 times more heat-resisting ability than steel, and 25 times more insulating power than steel.

Our 6" thick walls have a very low leak potential compared to pre-fab silos of any kind, and a very low maintenance requirement.

BEFORE SPENDING A LOT OF MONEY FOR ENERGY TO DRY YOUR CORN, YOU WILL DO WELL TO CONSIDER THE MANY ADVANTAGES OF OUR POURED CONCRETE SILOS...

To unload your corn, we can install the simple auger system, the Laidig 43 unloader, or the Flying Dutchman. Let's discuss the options, and what is best for your situation.

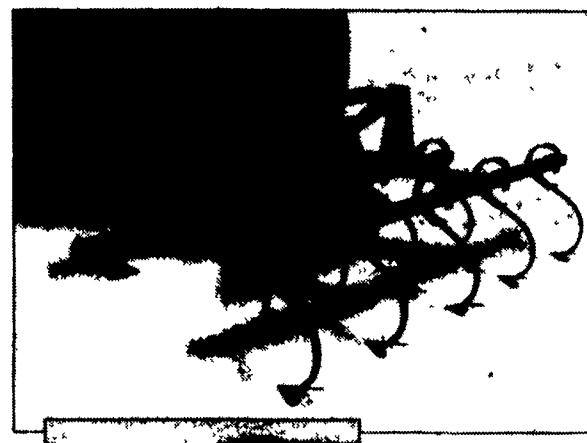
THE VAN DALE ADVANTAGE

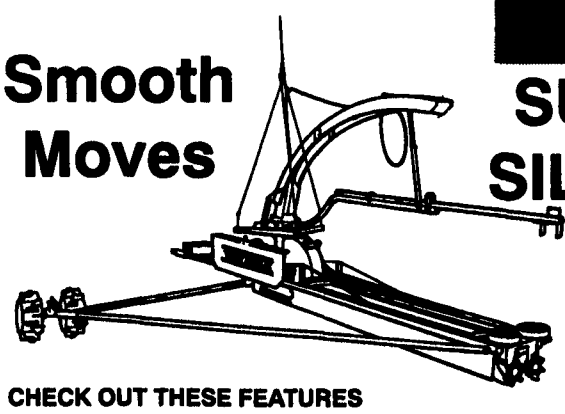
SHALLOW TILLAGE APPLICATOR



Van Dale's newest generation of liquid manure applicators is based on a simple, yet superior design. The Shallow Tillage Applicator consists of a double row of nine heavy duty cultivator shanks, evenly spaced, to provide maximum mixing action of top soil and liquid manure. All shanks are equipped with 9" sweeps to attack the soil and give consistent application and excellent soil agitation across a 12' width. The result is more manure nutrients available to plant roots because incorporation is done between 3" to 6" deep—ideal for crop utilization.

AN EFFECTIVE METHOD OF MAXIMIZING THE FERTILIZER VALUE OF LIQUID MANURE

Smooth Moves



SURFACE DRIVE SILO UNLOADERS

Smart farmers look to Van Dale for all the right moves when it comes to surface drive technology. Even frozen and hard packed silage and haylage are no match for Van Dale's Magnum and SD 2000. Now Van Dale offers even greater efficiency with its DURAGLIDE® Impeller available on the SD 2000. The Duraglide lessens gummy buildups, uses less power and provides faster and more reliable delivery.

Make a move in the right direction to Van Dale. Leaders of the pack since 1950!

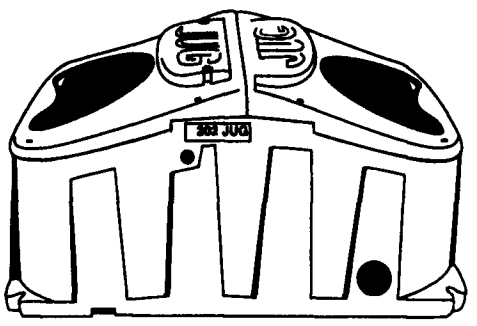
The JUG passes the "winter of '93-'94" test



Remember the c-c-c-c-c-cold winter of '93-'94? Wondering what the next one will bring and how your herd will fair?

Install the energy-efficient JUG to reduce concerns about freezing cattle fountains. Even in the coldest weather, the JUG performed, while the competition's waterers did not.

While the JUG's thick urethane insulation keeps the winter cold out, its patented drawtube recirculates water. Cooler bowl water exchanges with warmer reservoir water to keep bowl water open. The JUG will do its job.

A cold weather test conducted by an Iowa college during the winter of '94 demonstrated its energy efficiency. The JUG used only 108 kilowatts of electricity over four months for a cost of $8.64. A competitor's waterer used 816 kilowatts, costing $65.28, almost eight times as much. The test confirmed the JUG's energy efficiency.

No other waterer equals the Jug for clean, palatable water. Low maintenance, the JUG also meets the requirements for dairy approval.

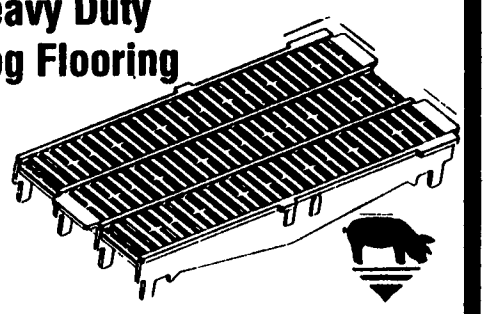
REPLACING HOG FLOORING? CONSIDERING NEW CONSTRUCTION?
☑ CHECK OUT Polygrate™
Heavy Duty Hog Flooring



Time Tested and Proven
This style of POLYGRATE was first introduced in 1981. Over the years Farocx has continued to refine this product. POLYGRATE is one of only a few "World Class" floors that has stood this test of time.

Outstanding Traction
POLYGRATE'S unique "high-low" finger design provides outstanding traction for pigs of all sizes, while enhancing safety and comfort.

- POLYGRATE'S rounded corners minimize injuries. The edges are beveled providing a smoother, safer surface that promotes comfort, too.

What Does This All Add Up To?
- More piglets survive until weaning
- Less splay/spraddle leg problems
- Heavier piglets at weaning
- Better conditioned sows at weaning

July Milk $12.07

ALBANY, N.Y. — Dairy farmers who supplied regulated milk dealers (handlers) under the New York-New Jersey marketing orders during July 1994 will be paid by handlers on the basis of a uniform price of $12.07 per hundredweight (26 cents per quart).

The price for the corresponding month last year was $12.85 per hundredweight. Market Administrator Ronald C. Pearce also stated that the price was $12.76 in June 1994.

The uniform price is a market-wide weighted average of the value of farm milk used for fluid and manufactured dairy products.

A total of 11,751 dairy farmers supplied handlers regulated under the New York-New Jersey marketing orders with 985,600,105 pounds of milk during July 1994. This was an increase of 1.3 percent (about 13 million pounds) from last year. The gross value to dairy farmers for milk deliveries was $118,880,559.93. This included differentials required to be paid to dairy farmers but not premiums, deductions authorized by the farmer, or assessments.

Regulated handlers used 386,170,871 pounds of milk for Class I, 39.2 percent of the total. This milk is used for fluid milk products such as homogenized, flavored, low test, and skim milks. For July 1994, handlers paid $13.93 per hundredweight (29.9 cents per quart) for Class I milk compared with $14.94 a year ago.

Handlers used 167,928,442 pounds of milk for Class II products, 17 percent of the total. Class II products include fluid cream, eggnog, ricotta and cottage cheeses, ice cream, and yogurt. Handlers paid $10.35 per hundredweight for this milk.

Milk used to manufacture Class III products including butter, cheese (other than ricotta and cottage cheeses), and whole milk powder totaled 412,210,423 pounds (41.8 percent of the total). Handlers paid $11.44 per hundredweight for this milk.

Milk used to manufacture nonfat dry milk (Class III-A) totaled 19,290,369 pounds (2 percent of the total). Handlers paid $10.16 per hundredweight for this milk.

The uniform price is based on milk containing 3.5 percent butterfat. For July 1994, there was a price differential of 6 cents for each one-tenth of 1 percent that the milk tested above or below the 3.5 percent standard.

All prices quoted are for bulk tank milk received from farms in the 201-210 mile zone from New York City.

Southeast Pasture Walks Continue

CREAMERY (Montgomery Co.) — One of the best ways to improve your pasture management skills is to see other pasture systems and talk with other graziers.

Pasture walks are designed to do just that. Many interested dairy farmers have learned and helped each other in a relaxed informal way how pastures can provide low cost high quality forage.

The pasture walks start at 10:30 a.m. and usually end around noon. All walks are free. For biosecurity reasons, please bring a pair of disinfected boots. Disposable boots will be provided as well. The final two walks for the southeast are as follows:

• September 15 at 10:30 a.m. the Ardin Landis family on border of Lancaster and Chester counties will be the hosts. Fifty cows are grazed on 30 acres of permanent pasture with a low cost system on rented farm. Management emphasis is on cost reduction. Bring boots to cross small stream. Directions: From intersection of Rt. 41 and Rt. 372, travel east on Rt. 372, third farm on right.

• October 20 at 10:30 a.m., Dr. Robert and Helene Dreisbach of Berks County will be the hosts. The Dreisbachs have one of the top 10 registered Jersey herds in the nation for herds of their size. Milking 110 cows 3x a day, the rolling herd average is 16,738 pounds. Ration utilizes both pasture and modified TMR. Comparing alfagraze to traditional alfalfa varieties. In addition to pasture system, they are upgrading double three-side opening parlor to an auto flow parlor. Directions: Follow Rt. 61 north from Rt. 78. Go about 0.4 mile and turn left (west) on Mountain Road (watch for signs for Laurel Center). Go 0.5 mile and turn left at first road onto Holly Road (toward Laurel Center). Go 0.2 mile to T and turn right on Laurel Road (Laurel Center on right). Go 0.3 mile to T and turn left on Pine Road. Go 0.7 mile to stop sign. Turn right onto Academy Road. First Farm on right.

For more information about the walks, contact Tim Fritz, Montgomery County, (610) 489-4315 or your local extension agent.

Cumberland County Holds Ag Expo

BETH MILLER
Cumberland Co.
Correspondent

NEWVILLE (Cumberland Co.) — The organizers of the first Cumberland Ag Expo were out to set up a small fair to showcase the talents of Cumberland County 4-H and FFA members.

They believe that the little fair they organized at the Newville Fairgrounds was a success that really fit the bill.

Duane Duncan, county ag extension agent, said he believes the expo did so well that it is all but certain that another edition of the fair will be held again next year.

"We had a lot of pretty good exhibits," he said. "It will never be a huge fair, but I think it will be unique."

The expo was put together by the New Carlisle Fair Association to replace the Carlisle Fair, which ended in 1991. Since then, there had been no local fair where FFA and 4-H members in the county could show their animals and their other talents.

The expo featured a wide variety of activities which were all geared to young people, but also enjoyable for adults.

For example, the first day included activities that ranged from a rocket launch contest to a Civil War presentation to a Little Miss Contest, a 4-H Fashion Revue and a dairiy management contest.

On the second day there was a junior dairy show and a junior dairy showmanship contest, a hippology contest, a presentation by the county 4-H Horse Drill Team, a sheep blocking contest, and a horse pulling contest that drew a crowd of several hundred people.

A junior sheep show and a showmanship contest, a 4-H Seeing-Eye puppy demonstration, a junior stockman contest, and a barnyard Olympics highlighted the third and busiest day of the expo.

The final day of the festival featured a junior goat show and a showmanship contest, a wildlife habitat/environment contest, and an obstacle course for draft horses.

Duncan said the expo, which he said will be rated as a Class D fair by the state, should be able to cover its expenses with state reimbursements and contributions from groups such as the county chapter of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau.

He said he was very pleased with both the turnout of exhibitors and spectators for the first-year event.

Duncan said the 250 exhibitors, most of whom were 4-H and FFA members, provided about 1,000 animal, farm and home, and other exhibits.

He estimated that more than 1,500 attended the fair.

"I think that our expectations were met," he said.

Ephrata Area Young Farmers Meet

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — The annual fellowship of families of the Ephrata Area Young Farmers Association was held at Woodcrest Retreat on Sunday, August 20, in the form of an ice cream social.

The regular monthly meeting was held August 23 at the farm of Harold and Norma Martin, Woodcorner Road.

Michael Brubaker, sponsor, introduced Leo Grasser, director of Lancaster County Assessment and Robert Handler, supervisor for Colelayer & Trumble Co., the appointed firm for the countywide assessment program. Grasser supplied information and answered many questions on the Clean and Green Act, which was enacted by the legislature in 1974 after the approval of the electorate.

Chandler gave the group information on the status and methodology used in the tax gathering information.

Philip E. Risser, president of the association, presided over a short business session. A discussion on the Ohio trip by John Zimmerman and others and the availability of some Winross trucks for sale followed.

Fate Of CRP Under Debate In Book

ANKENY, Iowa — In 1995, the first of 375,000 Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) contracts will expire. About two million highly erodible and other environmentally fragile acres will be eligible to return to crop production in 1966 as a result.

The prospect of bringing a large portion of all CRP acres back into crop production over a span of a few years has agricultural and environmental interests alike concerned. Such action would most likely result in higher commodity supplies and lower commodity prices as well as increased soil erosion, degraded water quality, and loss of wildlife habitat. The difficult question is, how can CRP acres and commodity prices be protected, as funding for the program expires?

Thst question, as well as many other critical issues resulting from the expiration of the CRP, are explored in "When Conservation Reserve Program Contracts Expire: The Policy Options," a new publication from the Soil and Water Conservation Society. The book, based on SWCS's February 1994 conference held in Washington, D.C., calls on key agricultural and conservation-oriented legislators, government program administrators, conservation leaders, researchers, landowners, and farmers and ranchers to open the dialogue and suggest strategies on how the U.S and its agricultural, conservation, and economic interests should manage CRP acres after contract expiration.

Single copies of "When Conservation Program Contracts Expire: The Policy Options" are available for $25 ($20 for SWCS members) from SWCS, 7515 N.E. Ankeny Road, Ankeny, Iowa 50021-9761, (515) 289-2331, or toll-free (800) 843-7645.

Recognition Program Welcomes Financial Supporter

TULSA, Okla. — The United States Junior Chamber of Commerce and Deere & Company have announced Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc. will provide secondary funding for the world's longest-running farmer recognition program, the National Outstanding Young Farmer (NOYF) program.

NOYF is entering its 39th year. Pioneer joins primary sponsor Deere & Company who has funded the NOYF program for 18 years.

The NOYF program, administered by The U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce, honors the achievements of a diverse group of enterprising farmers across the United States. Eligible farmers must be actual farm operators, deriving a minimum of two-thirds of their income from farming and must be between the ages of 21 and 39.

Farmers are recognized for progress in agricultural career, extent of soil and water conservation practices, and contributions to the well-being of the community, state, and nation.

The Golden Empire Junior Chamber will host this year's NOYF Awards Congress in Bakersfield, Calif., February 9-12, 1995. Hundreds of past state winners, dignitaries, and Jaycees will attend the ceremony, including U.S. Junior Chamber National President Gary Tompkins.

Mifflin County Holds Youth Fair

GAIL STROCK
Mifflin Co. Correspondent

LEWISTOWN (Mifflin Co.) — A snow and ice disaster crushed the roof of the "green building" at the Mifflin County Youth Park this past March but did little to dampen the ever-growing youth programs at the Mifflin County Youth Fair.

Community support and the spirit of volunteerism kicked into action soon after the weather broke and workers raised the roof in plenty of time for the August Youth Fair. Funding goal for the structure reached $80,000 but once again the community sent a strong message of support and encouragement to area youth by making the 4-H and FFA livestock sale the best in years.

Held Friday evening of fair week, the record-setting livestock sale brought in $69,772.94 for 4-H'ers and FFA'ers who auctioned off their goat, sheep, swine, beef, and, for the first time ever, market rabbit projects.

Several swine, goats, and lambs were sent back to the auction block for resale with proceeds, totaling $2,152.25, donated to the Youth Park Disaster Fund. The Mifflin County 4-H Junior Leaders earned $518.70 through resale for their exchange program.

A gallon of milk from the grand champion dairy cow sold at auction for $195. Steele's Rental in Lewistown purchased the milk. Belleville's Agway donated the stainless steel milk can and proceeds will benefit the Youth Park Fair Board.

First year Beef Club member Jonas Glick saw his grand champion animal sell to Hoss's Steak and Seahouse for $3 per pound, bringing a total of $3,435 for the 1,145-pound animal. Last year's champion sold for $2.25 per pound. The reserve grand champion steer, owned by Josh Bowen, went to the Camelot Restaurant for $1,440, bringing $1.20 per pound for a 1,200-pound steer.

Matt Kline's grand champion swine sold for $3.90 per pound. Ed Lash bought the 239-pound pig. The reserve grand champion swine, owned by Luke Savitts, went for $3.10 per pound.

Allensville Planing Mill bought Timothy Blystone's grand champion lamb for $3.85 per pound, while the reserve grand champion went to Mike's Landscaping for $3.30 per pound. Ashley Blystone owned that animal.

Carl Westover of Allensville Planing Mill placed the top bid for Timothy Blystone's grand champion sheep.

Sunnybrook Farms bought Beth Cooper's 3-pound grand champion market rabbit for $51 per pound.

When the evening ended, auctioneer Mark Glick saw a total of 208 animals walk into the ring at least once — 32 beef, 110 swine, 56 lambs, six goats, and four rabbits.

Youth Dairy Showmanship

On Thursday afternoon during fair week, Mifflin County's youth dairy participants enter the showring for the showmanship competition.

FFA grand champion showman was Matthew Kline and reserve champion was Michael Kline.

Andrew Reed earned both grand champion showman in the 4-H division and overall grand champion showman. Chris Uhland earned the 4-H reserve champion placing while Matthew Kline won the overall reserve grand champion honor.

NDB Announces Scholarship Winners

ARLINGTON, Va. — Two college students from Pennsylvania who are heavily involved in dairy industry activities earned $1,500 undergraduate scholarships from the National Dairy Promotion and Research Board (NDB), according to a recent announcement by the board.

In addition, two New York residents attending college in New York have also received scholarships.

Based in Arlington, Va., the NDB awarded 20 scholarships to college juniors and seniors from across the country. The scholarships are awarded based on oustanding academic performance, involvement in dairy-related extracurricular activities, career aspirations toward the dairy industry and demonstrated skills in leadership.

Miram Kelly, daughter of Thomas and Margaret Kelly, who have a dairy farm in Tyrone, and Brian Arnold, son of Frederick and Helen Arnold, who have a dairy farm in Towanda, were both awarded scholarships from the NDB.

According to Mary Parente, California dairy farmer and chair of the NDB's Milkfat Committee, "We (the dairy farmers serving on the National Dairy Board) select the best students to receive these scholarships. Those students will help the industry move into the 21st Century by developing and producing the superior quality dairy products to meet consumers' demands."

The NDB is comprised of 36 dairy farmers from across the nation and develops and administers a coordinated program of promotion, research and consumer communications to increase demand for U.S.—produced milk and dairy foods. This effort is financed by America's dairy farmers.

Mirian Kelly

Kelly, a graduate of Tyrone Area High School, is a senior at Virginia Polytechnic Institutes and State University, majoring in dairy science. After transferring from Penn State, Kelly was named outstanding transfer student by the Virginia Tech Dairy Science Department. At Virginia Tech, Kelly has been named to the Omicron Delta Kappa National Leadership Fraternity, Golden Key National Honor Society, Gamma Beta Phi Honor Society and Alpha Zeta Agricultural Honorary Fraternity.

She was a member of Virginia Tech's 1993 dairy judging team, which placed fourth nationally, and has served as second vice president of the American Dairy Science Association Student Affiliate Division, earning a second prize in the organization's paper presentation contest.

She is coeditor of the publication Milky Way, a dairy princess, and judging coach for 4-H and FFA for the dairy club. She has also served in various leadership positions for Sigma Alpha Professional Agricultural Sorority.

In addition to college activities, Kelly has won national dairy awards in 4-H and was the National Holstein Association's Distinguished Junior Member in 1993.

Having grown up on a registered Holstein farm, Kelly became involved with dairy related activities, such as 4-H, at an early age.

She currently works as an assistant in a ruminant nutrition laboratory and also as an intern for digestibility studies in dairy nutrition. She said she hopes to continue in graduate studies, where she seeks to bridge areas of nutrition and physiology.

Brian Arnold

Brian Arnold, currently of Harpursville, N.Y., is a senior at State University of New York at Morrisville, majoring in Animal Science — Dairy and Agricultural Business — Technology.

Arnold has been named to the president's and dean's lists at college. He is a member of the Lambda XI chapter of Phi Theta Kappa national honor society. He has also served for four years in the Navy, and was recognized as Sailor of the Quarter.

He said that after college, he intends to apply what he has learned on a progressive dairy farm, working to improve production, management and efficienty of feed use, labor, housing and waste management for a high quality product.

New York Winners

Two other New York residents, Kerri Lynne Benson, of New Lebanon, and Gail Weart, of Ithaca, also won scholarships. Benson is a junior at the State University of New York, Cobleskill, majoring in agricultural and applied economics in international agriculture, while Weart is a senior at Cornell University majoring in food science.

National Farmers Set Crop Production Estimates

AMES, Iowa — The National Farmers Organization's Grain Department has released its August 1994 survey of crop production.

The organization, which markets grain for its members from coast to coast, estimated this year's corn production at 9.164 billion bushels or a national average of 127.7 bushels per acre.

National Farmers Assistant Grain Director Tim Ennis said, "Although a number of states will match or exceed the 1992 record levels, weak areas in other key states, and fewer acres for harvest, will hold the overall crop below the 1992 record. Remember, we've got 405,000 fewer acres than 1992 projected for harvest."

National Farmers projected soybean production at 2.186 billion bushels or a national average of 36 bushels per acre. "Just as July makes the crop in corn, August makes the soybean crop. U.S. soybeans still need favorable weather to meet early-season projections," Ennis said.

All-wheat production is seen at 2.347-billion bushels, a national average of 37.9 bushels per acre. "Extremely dry weather in the northwest U.S. and during the early growing stages in spring wheat country caused a drop in production estimates," Ennis said.

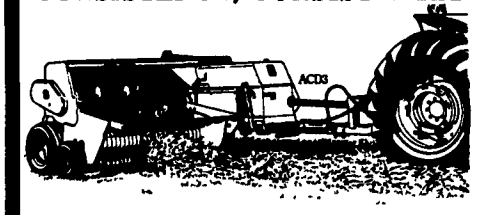
JOHN DEERE BALERS DELIVER CONSISTENCY, CONSISTENTLY



Building "square-er," stackable, solid bales is what our proven hay control system is all about.

Once hay is inside the baler, a continuous-flow, floating auger moves the crop into a tapered chamber... precompressing the hay before it reaches the bale chamber. This makes John Deere bales denser, and more consistent. A difference you'll notice when stacking and feeding bale after John Deere bale.

Model 338 Mid Size Baler
With ¼ Turn Chute
Sale Price $10,850.00 (1 Only)

BALES HOLD THEIR SHAPE... AND QUALITY... 'TIL FEEDING TIME

It's simple. You get uniform bale density throughout the bale-density you need for solid, stand-up-tall bales. Bales that hold their shape and therefore, preserve hay quality.

If your bales stay round, they shed water better, And since John Deere bales won't flatten or "slouch," there is less bale surface touching the ground to wick-up moisture. Dramatically reducing spoilage.

There's a reason why they specify Garrett turbochargers for their engines.

- A[illegible]halmers
- De[illegible]llis

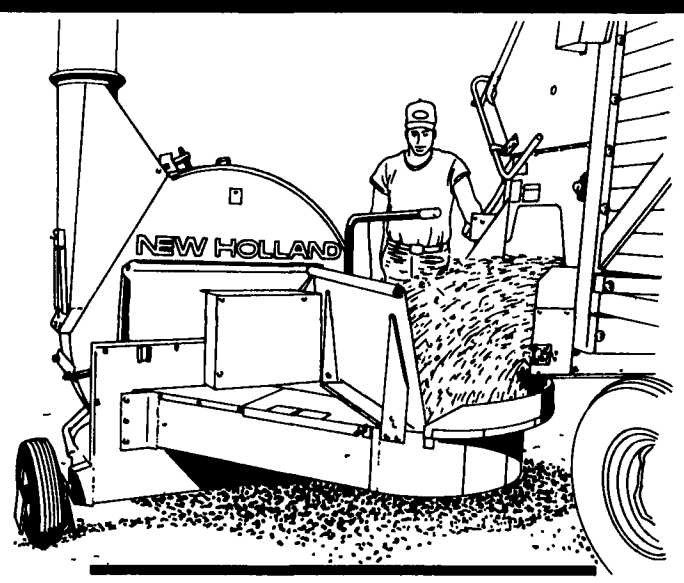
NO MORE PLUGGING



PREVENT SILO BOTTLENECK

The Model 28 forage blower reduces plugging and saves time at the silo. The Whirl-A-Feed® table breaks up clumps and spins crop into the blower at high speed. This means less drag on the fan and more efficient use of tractor horsepower.

Let the Model 28 save time for you.
